6 (Jury Not Present)

7 THE CLERK: Superior Court for the State of 8 Alaska, Third District with the Honorable Karl 9 Johnstone presiding, is now in session.

10 THE COURT: You may be seated. Counsel, 11 I've got copies of some instructions here. I'd like 12 to -- why don't you come on up and get them? So we'll 13 be talking about the same things, I've copied the 14 defendant's proposed jury instructions and the state's 15 proposed jury instructions and I've numbered them so, 16 we'll have a reference point to discuss from. And I
17 took the originals as you filed them, and I numbered 18 the originals as you filed them and then I made copies 19 of the original package after being numbered so that is 20 part of the official record, what you have right now, 21 by number. So when you refer to a number, you'll be 22 referring to a number that's in the official record.

23 MR. MADSON: Okay.

24 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, I'd like to file
25 another jury instruction. I'm giving Mr. Madson a copy

1 with three supplemental memoranda.

2 THE COURT: If you'll just give me a moment to 3 reread your response here. Would you log these in?
4 These have not been filed. These are the originals?

5 MR. ADAMS: Those are the originals.

6 THE COURT: File the originals downstairs, Mr.
7 Adams, and bring copies up. Here you are. Will you 8 log these in?

9 Pat, the originals are being maintained
10 downstairs. I'll have to use the originals -- do you 11 have a copy of the originals?

12 MR. ADAMS: Yeah, I have another copy, Your 13 Honor.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Pat, will you make sure 15 they get downstairs?

16 THE CLERK: Yes.

17 THE COURT: Thank you. (Pause) All right, 18 let's take care of the pending motion which is a motion 19 to reconsider. Do you wish to be heard any further on 20 it, Mr. Madson?

21 MR. MADSON: I don't believe so and certainly, 22 not at any great length, Your Honor. I think what I 23 outlined there in the written motion pretty well sets 24 it out. And I think, first of all, I think it was 25 error to allow a late witness to testify as to a matter

1 of law, but secondly, as I explained in the memorandum
2 that I discovered afterwards that Coast Guard policy
3 doesn't even permit it. And at the very least, I think 4 the jury should be entitled to have the regulations as 5 some kind of a guide to them to allow them to consider 6 the opinion as to -- whether or not it was made to show 7 some kind of bias motive or anything on the part of the 8 Coast Guard. That's essentially it.

9 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, I reviewed the tape of 10 Lieutenant Commander Falkenstein and he never mentioned 11 the word, bridge, from what I could hear. He just 12 said and I quote, "being under the direction and 13 control means that the individual directing the 14 vessel's movement through the water, the individual who 15 has the con must have the pilotage endorsement." The 16 word, bridge, is not there and whether "having the con" 17 means the person's on the bridge is a whole 'nother 18 story and that would be an opinion. I think the other 19 witnesses have testified to that fact. Con means 20 control. I mean he just said the person having 21 direction has the con which is just what the statute 22 says. And he expressed no opinion.

23 MR. MADSON: Well, Your Honor, I don't know 24 how in the world from all the other testimony that's 25 been heard here, one can say you've got the con and

1 you're not on the bridge. You know, that's obviously 2 what he meant. The con was the person who was actually 3 up there on the bridge, not somewhere else.

4 THE COURT: All right. Your application is 5 denied, Mr. Madson. The witness did not decline to 6 answer the question. He answered the question.
7 Frankly, had he declined, I would have ordered him to 8 answer it anyway and the statute would permit me to do 9 that.

10 Are there any motions now that the defendant or 11 the state wishes to make?

12 MR. MADSON: Yeah, there's a couple 13 evidentiary matters we could probably clear up.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. MADSON: One thing is the -- I don't have 16 the number of the exhibit. It's not been moved into 17 evidence. It was Captain Knowlton's license. We 18 discussed it and I don't have the exhibit list in front 19 of me but it was -- he was the master of the ARCO
20 Juneau and Captain Beevers testified about the course 21 he took and he also testified from the license that 22 Captain Knowlton had a pilotage endorsement that only 23 extended up to Busby Island. It did not go to the 24 pilot station.

25 THE COURT: Was it a defense exhibit?

1 MR. MADSON: I believe it was, Your Honor.

2 MR. ADAMS: We can find it, Your Honor, if we 3 can open the cabinet.

4 THE COURT: Okay. I don't remember the 5 number and it would be of some help if you could dig it 6 up.

7 MR. MADSON: Right. It was exhibit A-F.
8 Would you like to see?

9 THE COURT: You're offering it at this time?

10 MR. MADSON: I would, Your Honor, because 11 there was testimony about it and because it was 12 examined by Captain Beevers and I think it comes in -- 13 it would certainly come in under 803.23 which is the 14 catch all hearsay exception where it has the indicia of 15 reliability and truthfulness. Certainly, his license 16 is required by law; it is required by law to be kept on 17 the vessel. There's absolutely no showing, I think, or 18 any serious argument can be made that it was not 19 authentic, that it wasn't Captain Knowlton's license 20 and that it did not contain the proper endorsement, so 21 I think with that indicia of reliability, it should be 22 admitted, even though it is technically -- it's not a 23 business record offering as such.

24 THE COURT: Is there going to be an objection 25 to that exhibit?

1 MR. COLE: No.

2 THE COURT: Okay, without objection, it's 3 admitted.

4 EXHIBIT AF ADMITTED

5 MR. MADSON: The other thing we were talking 6 about, Your Honor, and we know what the Court said as 7 far as the jury is concerned yesterday but we were 8 discussing this and it seems that it would be 9 appropriate to sequester the jury for deliberations.
10 We're coming up on the anniversary of the oil spill and 11 I think it's highly likely that there's going to be 12 demonstrations and they may be in front of the court 13 house with people know what's going on. The press is, 14 of course, going to pick this up.

15 It's little by little gaining momentum right now 16 and I think it's going to be virtually impossible to 17 insulate the jury from outside influences and I don't 18 know what effect, if any, this would have but it 19 certainly raises the fear of a potential mistrial if 20 the jury was exposed to let's say demonstrations 21 outside the court house or other activity that would 22 perhaps interfere with their ability to be fair and 23 totally impartial in this case.

24 And it just seems that in the interest of trying 25 to be completely -- avoid the chance of a mistrial that

1 the additional inconvenience of the jury probably isn't 2 really going to be that significant.

3 And secondly, I think, it would enhance the 4 jury's ability to come to a verdict if they are 5 sequestered, because then they're going to be put in a 6 place where, I think, they're going to be working 7 harder than knowing they can go home any time they want 8 to. It's been a long trial.

9 THE COURT: You mean they'll reach a verdict 10 so they can go home is what you're suggesting?

11 MR. MADSON: So we can all go home. But 12 we're really more concerned about the -- I think if it 13 wasn't coming up on -- in another week, we're looking 14 at anniversary date here and I just know as sure as I'm 15 standing here there's going to be all kinds of new 16 activity coming up.

17 THE COURT: Is there some reason why you 18 waited until this late date to ask it? Is there some 19 change of circumstances have occurred or is it just in 20 general?

21 MR. MADSON: No, we're not aware of any change 22 in circumstance, Your Honor. We never requested the 23 jury to be sequestered for all these eight weeks. I 24 think that would have been -- that was just too much.
25 But we started looking at jury deliberations and the 1 fact that all of a sudden, it's dawning on us that good 2 grief, here we are coming up on the 23rd here shortly 3 and just start thinking about it, we thought well, 4 there should be may be a difference between 5 sequestering for the whole period of the trial and then 6 just for a much shorter period of time for just jury 7 deliberations as such 'cause they were talking just a 8 few days at the most, hopefully.

9 THE COURT: All right. The rule covers this.
10 Rule 27 in the Alaska Criminal Rule says that "a 11 request for overnight sequestration shall be made by 12 the parties before the jury is sworn unless good cause 13 is shown for a later request" and you haven't made any 14 showing of good cause here except as a general 15 cautionary feeling on your part. I'm going to deny 16 your request at this time.

17 Anything else we can take up as far as 18 applications now?

19 MR. MADSON: I don't think there's anything 20 else pending -- wait a minute, there is too. There is 21 one other thing and that's exhibit 117. That's the 22 inbound tape.

23 THE COURT: Yes, sir.

24 MR. MADSON: I think, Your Honor, it's 25 already been ruled to a certain extent but we reviewed

1 the transcript of the testimony and of the conference 2 that we had with regard to the objection and it may not 3 have been picked up on the record. We had a conference
4 right up there at the bench and I wanted to make sure 5 that the record reflects that the tape was objected to 6 on the grounds of relevancy plus the other additional 7 items that we mentioned such as the purpose for which 8 it was offered, you know, is to just to compare the 9 voices and now that we've had testimony which is 10 uncontroverted that it's not really a true and accurate 11 reproduction of the original. I still am not entirely 12 sure what the state is going to use it for but if it's 13 just to compare the way he sounds -- Captain Hazelwood 14 sounds on that tape versus the other tape, I think this 15 would probably be in the nature of a motion to 16 reconsider.

17           The Court was kind of hesitant about admitting it 18 to the jury, but then I think you said the witness 19 should be required to testify to the jury to show 20 whether or not we had any reason to believe it wasn't a 21 true and accurate reproduction and we did that. The 22 state has not countered that so I think at this point 23 we've made a sufficient showing that it is not a 24 reliable reproduction as far as comparing the nature of 25 the way a person speaks, not the words, just how fast

1 or how slow.

2 So, I would ask the Court to reconsider and then,
3 even if it is admitted and does go to the jury, there's 4 some other voices on there which are pure hearsay.

5 There's another person talking; this three-hour report, 6 don't know who that is. The Coast Guard person is on 7 there....

8 THE COURT: Are the words being offered for 9 the truth of the matter contained in them?

10 MR. MADSON: I don't know why they're 11 offered...

12 THE COURT: The other persons?

13 MR. MADSON: ...Your Honor, you'll have to 14 ask the state.

15 THE COURT: Mr. Cole?

16 MR. COLE: Your Honor, I think it all goes to 17 the issue of -- goes to weight and not admissibility.
18 That has been our position from the beginning. As to 19 -- well, our position is that it goes to the weight and 20 not to the admissibility.

21 THE COURT: He's objected to the other voices, 22 Mr. Cole. Do you want to address the entire objection?
23 Other voices are on the tape apparently, not just 24 Captain Hazelwood's. As I understand your offer, 25 you're trying to show Captain Hazelwood's voice at the 1 time coming in contrasted with the time when he 2 reported the spill and thereafter in order to prove 3 that he was under the influence at the time of the 4 spill. Is that a correct summary of your...

5 MR. COLE: Yes.

6 THE COURT: ...reasoning?

7 MR. COLE: And it also is being offered to 8 show that they declared themselves a pilotage vessel on 9 the three-hour inbound tape.

10 MR. MADSON: On that point, Your Honor, it is 11 not, in our opinion, Captain Hazelwood's voice that's 12 saying that they're a pilotage vessel. It's some other 13 person whose voice has never been identified. So 14 that's pure hearsay. It certainly is offered for the 15 truth of the matter asserted.

16 MR. COLE: It's offered to show why the watch 17 stander or the VTS person did what he did which is 18 write that down on an exhibit.

19 THE COURT: How long is the tape? When I 20 turn it on and listen to it, how long will it take me 21 to listen to it?

22 MR. COLE: About a minute.

23 THE COURT: The entire tape?

24 MR. COLE: It's about a minute.

25 MR. MADSON: It's not very long.

1 MS. HENRY: Yes, Your Honor, Mr. Le Cain says
2 one thing; Mr. Shepherd says something in response and 3 then Captain Hazelwood says something. It's about 4 four sentences.

5 THE COURT: Let's hear it.

6 (1515)

7 (Exhibit 117 played)

8 THE COURT: Any further argument?

9 MR. MADSON: Well, I think it's important to 10 note, Your Honor, that this conversation is not 11 recorded as it really happened. In other words....

12 THE COURT: Just a minute. Mr. Cole, what 13 are you doing?

14 MR. COLE: I was going to hand you this 15 because it shows you. That's...

16 THE COURT: This is the outbound. This is 17 what he filled out?

18 MR. COLE: Yes, on the inbound.

19 THE COURT: Okay, you can take this back. I 20 understand that.

21 MR. COLE: Okay.

22 THE COURT: That's the inbound and outbound, 23 isn't it?

24 MR. COLE: Inbound and outbound.

25 MR. MADSON: In other words, Your Honor, this

1 recording was not made in like Mr. Siedlick testified
2 in real time. You take a portion here; you take a 3 portion here some hours later and you put them together 4 on one tape. And that's what happened here. In other 5 words, what was necessarily said at the three-hour 6 reporting time was not necessarily at the same speed or 7 pitch as what happened later when you hear what's been 8 referred to as Captain Hazelwood's voice. That's where 9 he said the difficulties were of this tape. So we have 10 a composite of different times and places -- and places 11 too, because the ship was obviously moving along.

12 I may have missed it also, but I don't think Mr.
13 Le Cain identified his voice. Ms. Henry said that's 14 who it was but I don't recall Mr. Le Cain being shown 15 or listening to this tape and said, yeah, that's me 16 saying this. So we have a pure hearsay statement 17 offered for the truth of the matter asserted which is 18 did the vessel have pilotage by an unknown person.

19 And all of this is hearsay so if it's admissible 20 at all, it should have only Captain Hazelwood's voice 21 and nothing else on it.

22 THE COURT: The objection is overruled. I find 23 that it's a duplicate under Evidence Rule 1001, that 24 the original is either lost or destroyed under Evidence 25 Rule 1004 and there is not a genuine question raised as

1 to the authenticity of the original and there is no 2 circumstance in which it would be unfair to admit the 3 duplicate in lieu of the original in this case. Your 4 argument goes to the weight to be given this document.
5 The witness testified that it accurately reflected what 6 he heard from the original when he played it back. Of 7 course, you can argue the weight to be given this 8 document. 117 is admitted without the provision at 9 this time.

10 EXHIBIT 117 ADMITTED

11 What else can we take up now from the defendant's 12 point of view?

13 MR. MADSON: Well, Your Honor, the Court ruled 14 under 101, but I assume then that the hearsay objection 15 then is also overruled?

16 THE COURT: That's correct. It's overruled.
17 1001, yes.

18 MR. MADSON: I can't think of anything else at 19 the moment. I pondered this this morning and I think 20 the time would probably be better spent on the 21 instructions -- the only thing I can think of, Your 22 Honor, might be somewhat useful is to maybe go over 23 some instructions that we don't have any disagreement 24 about and we could at least clear that up and might 25 save some time later on. In other words, the boiler

1 plate type stuff.

2 THE COURT: Okay, what I am doing is preparing 3 a Court's set of instructions which will put them in 4 the chronology that they would normally be given and I 5 haven't completed them yet. There's a few handwritten 6 instructions and until I get them completed which will 7 probably take another hour or two, I don't think it 8 would do any good to go with that package. And 9 they're in the order which I would be giving them. I'm 10 going to go back to the office and massage them some 11 more and then give you each a copy of the best I've got 12 in about an hour and a half, two hours.

13 And then we can start talking in terms of the 14 Court's instructions and you'll see that they overlap, 15 both state and defense instructions quite a bit. And 16 we'll be talking in at least some meaningful fashion.

17 I anticipated there would be post-trial motions 18 that would normally be made. And I take it there are 19 no post trial motions at this time?

20 MR. MADSON: (Negative nod)

21 THE COURT: Okay. You're shaking your head 22 negative.

23 MR. MADSON: That's right.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Are there any applications 25 by the state?

1 MR. COLE: No, we have none. No, we have 2 none, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Okay. I received the supplemental 4 memorandum regarding impossibility and the definition 5 of operating a watercraft. Once again, I want to 6 reiterate and I expected this and it doesn't -- there's 7 nothing new on here and I take it you could find no 8 cases that would be contrary to your position or in 9 support of your position, Mr. Adams, that creating a 10 risk must be a real risk and not a potential risk?

11 MR. ADAMS: No, Your Honor, we found no
12 authority.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Do you want to be heard 14 further on your requested instruction on impossibility?
15 I've told you what the Court's inclination is. It's 16 not in granite, but it's getting harder and harder in 17 view of absence of any authority to the contrary.

18 MR. ADAMS: Well, Your Honor, it would be our 19 position that because it was impossible for the vessel 20 to be refloated under its own power that doesn't create 21 a risk consistent with refloating that vessel.
22 However, it was a risk that the actions of trying to 23 remove the vessel created. And that would be to bend 24 the longitudinals more which Professor Vorus testified 25 to, that he observed damage down in San Diego that was

1 consistent with a grinding motion of longitudinals 2 which decreased strength of the vessel, increasing the 3 risk that it would knuckle as the tide went down.

4 As it turned out, the vessel simply crushed and 5 created a cathedral effect at bulkhead 23. However, 6 the actions of grinding it for over an hour increased 7 the risk and so, we should be allowed to argue to that 8 effect. That is something totally separate from a risk 9 of refloating the vessel.

10 THE COURT: What was the risk that was created 11 by doing this?

12 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, the risk that was 13 created was as the vessel was ground into the rocks, it 14 decreased the strength at bulkhead 23 and causing a 15 greater risk of the vessel as the tide came down would 16 knuckle. That's, I believe. what it's called. And 17 instead of crushing the vessel which is what happened, 18 the vessel breaks in half and releases even more oil.

19 THE COURT: So, the risk is -- the actions
20 created risk to the vessel?

21 MR. ADAMS: That's correct. The star...

22 THE COURT: That would be the property of 23 another, you're referring to?

24 MR. ADAMS: No. And then, okay, at bulkhead 25 23, the starboard tank and the center cargo tank were

1 ruptured. The port tank was not ruptured. If that 2 vessel had knuckled as opposed to crushed, the port 3 tanks would have ruptured, releasing a tremendous 4 amount more of oil. Instead of having a vessel that 5 released 250,000 barrels, we would have had a vessel 6 that released 400 or 500,000 barrels of oil. And that 7 would have increased the damage.

8 That was a risk that was created by grinding
9 that vessel into the rocks. Those longitudinals run 10 the length of the vessel. They're I-beams and their 11 strength is developed -- and I mean their strength is 12 created solely by their -- or 99% by their 13 longitudinal, their straightness. As soon as those 14 I-beams are twisted, they lose a tremendous amount of 15 strength.

16 The amount of damage at bulkhead 23 was 17 substantial. And Professor Vorus testified that he 18 saw damage that was consistent with the twisting of 19 those longitudinals which was different than running 20 into straight into a reef. There's no reason that 21 those longitudinals would be as twisted as they were 22 because they would have just been crushed up. They 23 looked like rocks had been ground into them.

24 The testimony is that the vessel was impaled on 25 rocks. There's a picture of a rock that's almost the 1 size of a Volkswagen jammed up in there.

2 And as that vessel twisted back and forth, and 3 back and forth, it decreased the strength, increasing 4 the risk that the vessel would knuckle as the tide 5 fell.

6 THE COURT: Do you have citations to the 7 record that supports your assertion of these facts? My 8 recollection is a little different than yours and I'm 9 wondering what evidence you're drawing on here to 10 support that this was all done by Captain Hazelwood, 11 that there was longitudinals that were going to be 12 damaged by Captain Hazelwood doing this and that there 13 would be extra millions of gallons of oil spilled. I 14 don't remember any testimony along those lines and I'd 15 like to hear you specifically recite the record that 16 you're talking about.

17 (2107)

18 MR. ADAMS: When Professor Vorus testified, he 19 was asked "did you see any evidence down in San Diego 20 that was consistent with twisting the vessel?" He 21 testified that he saw scratch marks that were 22 perpendicular to an axis -- to a radial from the point 23 of rotation -- perpendicular lines...

24 THE COURT: I recall that part of the 25 testimony.

1 MR. ADAMS: He also testified that he saw 2 evidence in the longitudinals that were evidence that 3 the longitudinals were damaged consistent with 4 twisting. He also testified, if I'm not mistaken, that 5 that increased -- or decreased the strength of the 6 vessel, increasing the risk of more damage as the tide 7 went down, creating more of a risk.

8 And we're talking about a risk here. And it 9 would be a reasonable inference that if holing tanks 10 -- hole in the nine or ten tanks that were holed caused 11 this amount of damage, that holing the rest of the 12 tanks or however many tanks would have been damaged if 13 it would have knuckled is consistent with more damage.
14 And we don't have to prove damage, just the risk of 15 damage.

16 THE COURT: I understand that, Mr. Adams.
17 Okay.

18 MR. COLE: Judge, we have one other point 19 there that Mr. Adams hasn't talked about. And that's 20 the argument that I told you about when we talked about 21 this the other time. Captain Hazelwood's actions of 22 moving this vessel back and forth created also a risk 23 of holing the port side tanks. By moving the vessel 24 back and forth the way he did created a risk of that.
25 It created a risk that he would hit one of the port

1 side tanks and cause it to be punctured and Professor 2 Vorus testified about that and so did Mr. Milwee. I 3 believe there's a reasonable inference based on this 4 activity because you heard testimony that he was 5 swinging it around a hundred feet at the bow and it had 6 to be almost twice that much in the aft section. In 7 other words, it was a distance of over a hundred feet.
8 And we believe that, you know, with the fact that there 9 are rocks in the area that could puncture that...

10 THE COURT: Are there rocks -- was there 11 evidence that there were rocks in the area that he 12 could have punctured?

13 MR. COLE: I think so.

14 THE COURT: You can...

15 MR. COLE: You have to look at the fathom 16 marks.

17 THE COURT: Maybe you could point to the 18 record for me to show where the rocks were that he 19 could have punctured. First of all, was there any 20 testimony that there were soundings made of rocks in 21 the area that he could have hit?

22 MR. COLE: There's testimony of soundings made 23 all around the ship.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. COLE: And their expert himself said that

1 if he had turned -- if he had just turned it one way, 2 he would have gone around in a circle.

3 (2258)

4 THE COURT: David, would you get those two 5 cases for me, please? The two cases you were 6 researching I gave you from the bench yesterday?

7 (Pause)

8 MR. COLE: Well, I can't tell what that one is 9 but that looks like a 6 to me, Your Honor. That marker 10 right there. It's difficult to see but there is a 11 fathom mark.

12 THE COURT: You're showing me exhibit -- what 13 numbers?

14 MR. COLE: A-K.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Is there any other 16 evidence you wish to call the Court's attention to that 17 would establish that there was a real risk involved?

18 MR. COLE: No.

19 MR. MADSON: Your Honor, I think the Court is 20 really keyed into it. What the state is talking about 21 here is a theoretical risk and not a real -- and more 22 particularly what the statute requires is a substantial 23 risk. Their argument is totally -- left that word out 24 as if it didn't exist. Well, it's a very substantial 25 part of the statute if I can use that phrase because

1 that's what it really means. You can risk a lot of 2 things, but unless it's -- other than just in theory, a 3 possibility, it has to be not only just a potential one 4 but it has to exist and it has to be for whatever 5 substantial means. Whether it's 50% or more than 50%
6 or whatever, but it has to be a real risk as the Court 7 has already pointed out.

8 You know, we can sit here all day and look at a 9 fathom chart and say, well if the vessel could have 10 moved this far, this could have happened. Or if -- a 11 lot of things could have happened, but I think the 12 testimony was clear by part of everybody that there was 13 no damage at all that was attributable to any twisting 14 action on the part of Captain Hazelwood. There was 15 crushing damage from tides; there was damage that may 16 have been caused by the tugs moving it back and forth; 17 damage that was caused afterwards.

18 There was absolutely no testimony to show that 19 specifically this could have happened as a result of 20 Captain Hazelwood's minimal actions with the rudder and 21 power. In fact, most of the witnesses agreed that the 22 amount of power -- in fact, they all did. They all 23 agreed the amount of power used was insuffi -- just so 24 insignificant that it couldn't really move the vessel 25 forward one inch and sideways very little. So, in

1 fact, it couldn't move at all. It was virtually 2 impossible.

3 THE COURT: Were you about to say something?

4 MR. ADAMS: Well, Your Honor, there's one 5 other issue as far as the use of the evidence of 6 refloating and that's to establish that he was 7 impaired. You've tentatively ruled that we could argue 8 that to the jury, that that was evidence of his 9 impairment irregardless of whether it was impossible.
10 And in the case of Comeau versus State, I cited in my 11 supplemental memo there, refers to that impairment and 12 recklessness are pretty much synonymous when the state 13 proves that a person is actually driving a motor 14 vehicle while he's impaired. And we would request 15 that we be able to argue that not only is it evidence 16 of his level of impairment, it's also evidence of his 17 state of mind, that he was acting recklessly and 18 negligently.

19 (2561)

20 THE COURT: All right. Well, I've given it a 21 lot of thought and we can't find much more on the 22 subject than counsel has been able to give us, but what 23 I can find leads me to believe that criminal mischief 24 requires an actual risk and not a speculative risk and 25 in determining whether the crime of criminal mischief

1 in the second degree is committed, an objective 2 assessment of the degree of risk presented by the 3 alleged reckless conduct has to be made.

4 Reckless, endangerment, criminal mischief is 5 defined in terms of the risks produced by defendant's 6 conduct and not intent and factual impossibility 7 eliminates the risk essential to the commission of the 8 crime. Based on the evidence, reasonable minds can't 9 differ. In my opinion, it was factually impossible for 10 there to be any additional oil loss or be any 11 additional damage to property of another as the term is 12 being used in this case.

13 And on November 17, 1989, in response to the 14 Court's order, the state stated that the phrase, 15 "property of another" as used for the purpose of the 16 indictment includes the fisheries, wildlife, 17 vegetation, shoreline and other aspects of Prince 18 William Sound. It does not include the Exxon Valdez 19 itself. So, the very de minimus testimony that there 20 may have been additional damage to the Exxon Valdez 21 itself does not constitute creating a risk of damage to 22 property of another as the term is used in the 23 indictment.

24 There is no evidence in the record that would 25 support an argument that additional oil was lost or

1 could have been lost by the defendant's alleged 2 maneuvering on Bligh Reef. There is no evidence in the 3 record to support an argument that any additional 4 damage to property of another could have occurred as a 5 result of his actions. It being factually impossible 6 for that to have occurred, based on the record the 7 Court has before it.

8 There was a substantial amount of evidence
9 admitted on the question. In my way of thinking, 10 evidence of what the defendant did in trying to move 11 the vessel off could be considered and state could 12 argue that is evidence of his impairment, based on the 13 record before the Court. So what he did and the 14 knowledge that other people say that he should have had 15 or that a captain should have that not knowing what the 16 circumstances were could result in additional damage or 17 loss is evidence of impairment.

18 We'll leave it up to the jury to determine what 19 weight to give that evidence. So the evidence came in 20 for that purpose. It's come in so much and so often 21 however, this Court, I believe, needs to give an 22 instruction to limit the jury's consideration to that 23 charge.

24 So, it's the Court's intention to give an 25 instruction that will provide the jury information that

1 they're to consider the actions by Captain Hazelwood in 2 running the engines and making any maneuvers if they 3 find any were made as evidence of count -- and I forget 4 the count of the information...

5 UNIDENTIFIED: One.

6 THE COURT: Count one of the information and 7 not as evidence of count one of the indictment, counts
8 two and three of the information. I don't know exactly 9 how I'm going to word that, but I'll get it together 10 and we'll discuss the wording of it but the jury will 11 be so instructed and limited -- their consideration of 12 that evidence will be limited to the DWI only.

13 Next issue, I think, we need to discuss is the 14 issue of operating a watercraft. There's been a 15 second supplemental memorandum regarding the definition 16 of operating a watercraft. I'm aware of the statutory 17 definition; I'm aware of the case law that's been 18 cited. I've already come to the conclusion earlier 19 that captain on the bridge issuing helm orders 20 navigating or anybody who was using the vessel in that 21 fashion is operating a watercraft as the term is used.

22 However, I thought it was the state's intention 23 to show that after the engines were turned off finally 24 at crossing 1:41 that the captain could still be found 25 guilty for operating a watercraft, for using a vessel -

1 - that is used for transportation or capable of being 2 used for transportation. Is that the state's intention 3 to go on that theory?

4 MR. ADAMS: If we could just have a minute, 5 Your Honor.

6 (Pause)

7 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, the state is only 8 going to argue that the operation continued until 1:41 9 a.m.

10 THE COURT: Until the engines were finally 11 turned off?

12 MR. ADAMS: That's correct.

13 THE COURT: Okay, and I take it the 14 defendant's position is that he cannot be found guilty 15 of operating a watercraft after it went aground?

16 MR. MADSON: That's absolutely correct, Your 17 Honor. And the Rickendahler case, I think, supports 18 that. That's Rickendahler versus Dimond Drilling
19 Company 19 F.2nd 124. It's cited in the state's -- a 20 case the state attached in their motion. It's cited in 21 there but I think it's important to note that in the 22 state's definition and now, they're trying to define 23 watercraft, the cases that they've cited all have to do 24 with such things as workmen's compensation and matters 25 like this where there's a very, very liberal

1 construction given to what is a watercraft in order for 2 injured seamen to recover.

3 And I think that's pointed out in all the cases 4 but the Rickendahler case in deciding that very issue 5 said that a vessel which is not on navigable waters, 6 that is not on the water, and is incapable of being 7 used at that time, it had holes in the hull. In fact, 8 it was not completed yet; it was still being built, was 9 not in fact a vessel under the terms that can be used 10 by means of as capable of being used as a means of 11 transportation.

12 So our argument is when the Exxon Valdez is on a 13 reef and impossible to move it, by its own power. In 14 other words, it took a lot of time and a lot of effort 15 to get it off of there, it's certainly is incapable of 16 being used as a means of transportation at that point.
17 Whether the engine is able to run or not, it simply 18 can't transport anything from Point A to Point B. It 19 couldn't go one inch and so I think under the 20 definition, you have both things. It wasn't on water 21 at the time. It was, in fact, on land. It was 22 impaled. And secondly, because of the holes in the 23 hull, just like in Rickendahler, it was incapable of 24 being used as a means of transportation, so whether the 25 engines were running -- an engine ran or not is not the

1 question because the engine could be used for a number 2 of things. And as the Court has heard, there was 3 testimony that was used to maneuver the vessel ever so 4 slightly. It could just turn a little bit but it 5 certainly couldn't be used under the terms as defined 6 in the statute.

7 Now, the difference and where we're having 8 difficulty here is because, I think, there's no 9 definition by the legislature on operation of a motor 10 vehicle and we had a lot of cases that show under state 11 law that a motor vehicle, a car or a bus or a truck, 12 you don't need those qualities of movement. In other 13 words, you can be stuck in the snow, in the mud or have 14 a lot of problems with a car but it still has to be at 15 least number one, operable, that it has to be -- you 16 have to operate something on it. Now, in that context, 17 I suppose it could be said that the Exxon Valdez was 18 operable because the engine worked, but that's all.

19 THE COURT: The rudder worked also.

20 MR. MADSON: Pardon me?

21 THE COURT: The rudder worked.

22 MR. MADSON: The rudder and the engine worked.
23 So, in that sense, you can say it's operable but then 24 the other part is -- and here's the basic distinction 25 is that under motor vehicle definition, there isn't any

1 so the Court had to interpret one and say it doesn't 2 matter. But here, for whatever reason, the legislature 3 did this and I certainly can't say one reason or the 4 other, but they did say -- they apparently took the 5 standard definition of a watercraft and put that in the 6 statute, to operate a watercraft. And it's a broad 7 definition but it still requires some movement, some 8 way of transporting something.

9 Now, it could be a barge with no engine at all.
10 That could be a watercraft, probably under that 11 definition, a means of transportation. I don't know.
12 We don't have to reach that issue, but that's one of 13 the things that comes up quite often and in fact, the 14 case that the state cited in support of their theory 15 was just that. It was a vessel that didn't have an 16 engine, but it was capable of being moved from one 17 place to another.

18 Now for under maritime law, for purposes of 19 recovery under workmen's compensation acts, it was a 20 vessel. Under our law if it didn't have an engine, I 21 don't know. It apparently would not be a watercraft 22 because -- or maybe it is. I don't know. Maybe sail 23 boats come under that. I don't know. An engine, I 24 don't think, is the criteria. I think the basic 25 criteria is what it says there, is capable of being

1 used as a means of transportation and I don't think 2 there's any argument that after the Exxon Valdez 3 crunched into that rock and stayed there, there was no 4 way to transport anything.

5 MR. ADAMS: Nothing further, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: I'm going to look at this a little 7 more before I make a final decision but I'm looking at 8 it from the point of view of the defendant's theory of 9 the case and the state's theory of the case. The 10 defendant's theory of the case is that Captain 11 Hazelwood was maneuvering this vessel to keep it on the 12 rocks. He was using the rudder and the engine control 13 to keep it on the rocks; he was intentionally -- your 14 theory is that he was intentionally swinging the bow 15 around to keep it on the rocks, doing what was 16 necessary. And I think under that theory that it might 17 be considered that he was using that motor -- that 18 watercraft for either transporting people to keep 'em 19 on the rocks or to navigate to keep it on the rocks.
20 Now, I'm not sure about that, but that's my inclination 21 so far.

22 MR. MADSON: Well, I just point out once 23 again, Your Honor, I think the Court is zeroing in on 24 only part of that definition and I'd just encourage the 25 Court to kind of look again at capable of being used a

1 means of transportation and look at the transporting 2 aspect of it.

3 THE COURT: Well, as I said, it's not final.
4 I was just giving you a little idea which way I'm 5 heading so far. And if I do go that direction, I 6 might be giving an instruction to the state something 7 to the effect that the Exxon Valdez after the engines
8 were turned off at approximately 1:41 and the Exxon 9 Valdez was hard aground, the Exxon Valdez was no longer 10 capable of being used for navigation or transportation, 11 something along those lines, so the jury can't consider 12 anything past that.

13 (3314)

14 I'd like to go the instruction number 9 of the 15 state's proposed instructions. I have -- that's the 16 indictment in this case charges. The state's proposed 17 number 9. I have changed that to eliminate all of it 18 after -- this is on the indictment. All of it after 19 dangerous means starting with the words, "to wit" down 20 to the word, "oil." I've proposed to eliminate that 21 language. Mr. Cole, do you wish to be heard on that or 22 Mr. Adams?

23 MR. ADAMS: No.

24 MR. MADSON: I would agree with that, Your 25 Honor, to just state the terms of the statute...

1 MR. COLE: No, that's fine.

2 THE COURT: Okay, state's instruction number
3 17, the middle paragraph, I propose to eliminate. Does 4 the state wish to be heard on that?

5 MR. COLE: No.

6 MR. MADSON: I agree, Your Honor. It was on 7 my list of things to bring up on the instructions. I 8 think that instruction has been held to be 9 impermissible.

10 THE COURT: Not yet, but it's close.

11 MR. MADSON: It's certainly been criticized,
12 let's put it that way.

13 THE COURT: The word presumption was held 14 impermissible, I know. Okay. State's instruction 15 number 23, the definition of wildly dangerous means, 16 has a sentence that's added to it. "An oil spill may 17 be considered a widely dangerous means." The Court 18 has ruled already that that's within the definition 19 that the jury may consider an oil spill Is there an 20 objection to that language?

21 MR. MADSON: Oh certainly, Your Honor. I 22 think that's an issue that the jury is entitled to 23 find. Widely dangerous means is one of the elements 24 of the offense and by giving this instruction, the 25 Court is virtually giving a directed verdict on that

1 element. I think it's something the jury can agree or 2 disagree with.

3 MR. ADAMS: Well, Your Honor, if the law said
4 an oil spill must be considered widely dangerous means, 5 that would be a directed verdict -- well, a directed 6 verdict on this particular issue. It doesn't state 7 "must"; it says "may". And the Court has already ruled 8 as a matter of law and there are a lot of times that 9 sentences such as this are included where there's 10 permissive language in there.

11 THE COURT: I rule there's -- I deny the 12 application to dismiss; I didn't rule as a matter of 13 law that the oil spill was widely dangerous means. I 14 said it could be within the definition as given by 15 widely dangerous means. Does that language track the 16 statute exactly?

17 MR. ADAMS: Of widely dangerous means?

18 THE COURT: Except for the last sentence?

19 MR. ADAMS: Yes, I believe so, Your Honor.
20 Except for the last sentence.

21 THE COURT: Let's see. What's the statutory 22 definition number, Mr. Adams?

23 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, I believe the 24 definition of widely dangerous means comes at the very 25 end of 11.46 4...

1 THE COURT: Okay, I see it now. Mr. Madson, 2 do you intend on arguing that the oiled beaches and the 3 oil that was spilled was not widely dangerous means?

4 MR. MADSON: I was going to argue that's 5 something the jury certainly can consider in 6 determining whether or not that element has been proven 7 beyond a reasonable doubt by the state, Your Honor.
8 The problem with that last sentence is whether or not 9 it tells the jury directly. It certainly gives a 10 strong inference that that's what the Court is saying 11 and I think it simply is inappropriate to do that in 12 the situation where there's different elements and this 13 is one of them. I mean they have to prove it was by 14 widely dangerous means.

15 And by telling the jury, well, the Court says you 16 can consider this, that's true, but I think it just 17 gives too much emphasis to this one particular element.
18 I think they're all subject to jury interpretation and 19 who's to say? It's up to the jury to decide that as 20 well as any of the other elements, recklessness or 21 anything else.

22 THE COURT: Well, something has to be done to 23 prevent you from arguing that since the word, oil 24 spill, is not contained in that statutory definition 25 that therefore the state hasn't proved its case.

1 That's what I want to avoid having happen.

2 MR. MADSON: I was just simply -- I wasn't 3 going to argue oil spill in those terms, Your Honor. I 4 was just going to refer to the statute and say what is 5 required for the state to prove and that element as 6 well within those, you know, definitions, what evidence 7 have they heard, whether or not it comes within this or 8 not, beyond a reasonable doubt.

9 THE COURT: Okay, at this time I'm 10 provisionally going to give the instruction as 11 suggested by the state unless you can come up with some 12 other instruction that will cover my concerns, Mr.
13 Madson.

14 Okay, instruction number 24, state's instruction.
15 Given the state's bill of particulars that the property 16 of another does not include the Exxon Valdez itself and 17 given that there's been evidence of damage to the 18 vessel and given that there's been evidence that some 19 ten millions approximately gallons of oil was lost 20 which I assume the jury would infer had some value in 21 excess of $100,000, I think we need to define this with 22 some degree of specificity. Would counsel object to 23 using the bill of particulars as set forth by Mr. Cole 24 and add to it, "nor the cargo or the contents"? Would 25 the defendant have any objection to that?

1 MR. MADSON: Well, maybe the Court can read
2 that bill of particulars again, Your Honor. I'm not 3 sure I remember it exactly.

4 (3931)

5 THE COURT: I would propose the instruction to 6 read as follows: "Property of another means property in 7 which a person has an interest which the defendant is 8 not privileged to infringe, whether or not the 9 defendant also has an interest in the property and 10 whether or not the person from whom the property is 11 obtained or withheld also obtained the property 12 unlawfully. The phrase, 'property of another' as used 13 for the purpose of the indictment includes fisheries, 14 wildlife, vegetation, shoreline and other aspects of 15 Prince William Sound. It does not include the Exxon 16 Valdez or its cargo or its contents itself."

17 MR. MADSON: I think that's appropriate. I 18 would not have any objection to that.

19 MR. COLE: We don't have any objection to 20 that.

21 (4002)

22 THE COURT: Okay, state's instruction number
23 30. That doesn't seem to track the statute, counsel, 24 but perhaps there was reason for you deviating from 25 that. Is there a pattern instruction that this is 1 derived from or...

2 MR. ADAMS: Yes, Your Honor, this instruction
3 came by way of jury instructions that come from DWI 4 trials in district court that are used in the 5 misdemeanor section of our office. What I did, I found 6 this instruction in the DWI packet that we have and 7 changed it to not refer to .05 by breath alcohol but by 8 blood alcohol. That's the only changes I've made to 9 it. If it's not what's tracked in the statute, then 10 something is wrong in the district court because that's 11 one they've been using as far as I know.

12 THE COURT: Did you look at the statute?

13 MR. ADAMS: Yes, I did.

14 THE COURT: The statute doesn't talk in terms 15 of inferences; it talks in terms of presumptions, 16 number one. 28.35.033 talks about presumptions and 17 chemical analysis of breath and it doesn't deal with 18 chemical analysis of blood. Now, would that make any 19 difference in your proposal that we're talking about 20 presumptions? Subsection 1 says if there was 0.05% or 21 less by weight of alcohol in the person's blood, it 22 shall be presumed that the person was not under the 23 influence of intoxicating liquor. And then it goes if 24 there was an excess of 0.05% but less than 0.10% by 25 weight of alcohol in a person's blood, that fact does

1 not give rise to any presumption the person was or was 2 not under the influence of intoxicating liquor but that 3 fact may be considered with other competent evidence in 4 determining whether the person was under the influence 5 of intoxicating liquor. Now, you use the word 6 inference rather than presumption and I'm wondering if 7 it...

8 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, the reason I use
9 inference is that what I got out to the district court 10 and what I'll do is -- I propose to take a closer look 11 at this instruction and compare it to the statute and 12 see if the district court has one that they use for 13 blood alcohol as opposed to breath alcohol and I 14 can....

15 THE COURT: Okay, you might look at what the 16 Alaska pattern jury instructions are if there are any 17 on this.

18 MR. ADAMS: There aren't any on DWI.

19 THE COURT: They're just on Title 11, are 20 they?

21 MR. ADAMS: Right. What I did was I went and 22 received a DWI packet from the district court. It did 23 not have this instruction in it. I looked at files in 24 our office where this instruction has been given. I 25 found this instruction and then changed it to blood

1 alcohol. I'll go check with the district court and see 2 if they have one for blood alcohol. But this is the 3 one they use the word inference or infer for breath
4 alcohol in the instruction I received, so I'll change 5 it if I can find another one.

6 (Tape: 3682)

7 (0075)

8 THE COURT: That's not the only thing I'm 9 finding difficult with this but I just wanted to find 10 out if there was a pattern instruction.

11 Does it make any difference that the statute 12 deals in terms of the amount of alcohol in the person's 13 blood at the time alleged? Does that make any 14 difference because this was a test taken approximately 15 ten hours after the time alleged or about -- maybe not 16 ten but maybe nine hours, eight and a half, nine hours 17 after the time alleged that he was operating a 18 watercraft while under the influence.

19 MR. ADAMS: Well, Your Honor, it would be our 20 position that using retrograde extrapolation back to 21 midnight, between midnight or whenever the pilot left 22 the vessel, 11:30 or so until 1:41, that's the time 23 alleged and using retrograde extrapolation, if the jury 24 finds that retrograde extrapolation proves that Captain 25 Hazelwood's blood was in excess of .1, it may be

1       inferred or however the language of the statute that he 2       was intoxicated. That's a permissive presumption.

3               THE COURT: Are there any cases to support 4       your theory that we can use retrograde extrapolation to 5       apply this statute?

6               MR. ADAMS: No, I'm aware of none.

7               THE COURT: Do you know of any cases to the 8       contrary that would suggest that we cannot apply 9       retrograde extrapolation or evidence of a blood test 10      taken hours afterwards to apply this statute?

11              MR. ADAMS: I'm aware of none.

12              MR. MADSON: Your Honor, I'm aware of one.
13      What the state has done here is they say under Alaska 14      law, well they eliminated one very important phrase 15      here and that's the chemical analysis of the person's 16      blood or breath. I don't think that's really the 17      criteria we should consider, but right after that it 18      says "by a test taken within four hours." And they 19      just eliminated that from the law altogether like it's 20      meaningless.

21              Williams versus state, unfortunately I don't have 22      the cite...

23              THE COURT: What statute are you referring 24      to?

25              MR. MADSON: The one that talks about -- I

1 don't have the number here because I'm just looking at 2 instruction 30, but that's the theory of DWI by a 3 breath test or blood test. The .10 theory, that's what 4 they're talking about here. In other words, a person 5 can be found guilty of DWI by being under the 6 influence, number one, regardless of his blood alcohol 7 content or breath content or number two, the .10 theory
8 and that's what this refers to. And that statute -- I 9 don't have it, it's 11.28...

10 THE COURT: Okay, it's 28.35.030 is the one 11 about four hours and the one you're tracking your 12 instruction from is 28.35.033.

13 MR. ADAMS: That's correct, Your Honor, and I 14 don't think that .033 requires that it be within four 15 hours. My reading of it didn't require it within four 16 hours.

17 MR. MADSON: Well, I think Williams in the 18 footnote there talks about this and says certainly a 19 test taken outside the four-hour limit can be used to 20 infer intoxication but not under that theory. There's 21 no other purpose of having that test requirement there 22 for blood alcohol. And certainly there's no law that 23 says retrograde extrapolation can be used to go back 24 under the .10 theory to show that.

25 There has to be a time -- a limiting time here

1 and that's what the legislature did. They put the four 2 hours in to get around this and say if it's within four 3 hours, the test is presumed to be valid and can be used 4 to establish that at the time alleged his blood alcohol 5 was at a certain level, but that's the only purpose of 6 this. And it can be used to allege it in the sense 7 that he was operating while impaired or while 8 intoxicated but not to show that what his blood alcohol 9 content really was because just look at it. The blood 10 examination accurately established to be .10% or 11 greater at the time. Well, we certainly heard plenty 12 of testimony that -- even their own experts said you 13 can't accurately do this. It's at best an 14 extrapolation and based on a lot of assumptions.

15 I'd ask that the Court to maybe withhold any -- 16 I'm sorry I didn't bring Williams with me, but I....

17 THE COURT: I'm going to. I'm going to hold 18 off on it. It sounds like you're not geared -- you've 19 not got the statute and you're not geared to argue 20 that. (Pause) There was no instruction in the 21 state's package that I could find that indicated the 22 jury was under the obligation to consider each of the 23 charges separately and I include one of those and it 24 will be in your package.

25 Okay, since counsel has -- let me ask you this,

1 Mr. Madson. Are you prepared at this time to argue
2 these instructions? There were several instructions
3 that the state proposed with some citations. Would you 4 like some time to get geared up for that?

5 MR. MADSON: Well, Your Honor, I was probably 6 prepared to argue some but since the Court wanted 7 something in writing, we were kind of gearing up to do 8 that.

9 THE COURT: Okay. The ones I was referring to 10 were the ones that was attached to the defendant's 11 trial memorandum re jury instructions. Would you need 12 some time to prepare for those?

13 MR. MADSON: The ones attached to what?

14 THE COURT: Trial memorandum re jury 15 instructions.

16 MR. MADSON: Oh. Oh.

17 THE COURT: There were several instructions.
18 I don't mind holding off on this and coming back on 19 Monday. By then, I'll have this package in your hands.
20 The Court's instructions.

21 MR. MADSON: I think -- just as a starting 22 point, I could certainly say one thing, Your Honor, and 23 that's with regard to the pilotage instructions that 24 they've attached. I've read their case that they 25 cited. I think it's Michael versus State and I don't

1 know if the Court has seen that one yet or not.

2       There seems to be a South Dakota case based on an 3 earlier case which allowed the jury to hear rules of 4 the road, so to speak, statutes involved how a motor 5 vehicle should be operated and then the jury was told 6 well, you can consider these and then -- consider them 7 in the context of whether or not the defendant was 8 acting recklessly if he violated these statutes. That 9 seems to be -- from what I can find and I was 10 researching this yesterday, is that these cases seem to 11 stand alone. South Dakota seems to be pretty far 12 removed from the trend here.

13       I know of no case in Alaska that I was ever 14 involved with that in a manslaughter case where you're 15 talking about a result, a death, where the jury is 16 allowed to consider speeding violations or things -- 17 separate statutory or regulatory violations of an 18 operation of a motor vehicle to consider whether he's 19 acting recklessly.

20       The term recklessly has been defined by our 21 statute and it just kind of comes in in that context.
22 However, more importantly, the problem I have with 23 those instructions is that the state is trying to use 24 the regulations from a totally different jurisdiction.
25 That is the federal government and federal Coast Guard

1 regulations or statutes and impose them here to enforce 2 a state law. It's a little bit off the track but I
3 mean I do have a case that says the state simply can't 4 do this. You can't enforce or try to enforce other 5 jurisdiction's statutes by way of your own.

6 Now, the state of course is arguing -- would 7 argue that they're not trying to do that. They're 8 just trying to say if a violation of this federal 9 statute or Coast Guard reg, you can consider that as 10 far as recklessness is concerned. Well, I just object 11 to that entire theory altogether. I just have never 12 ever seen that done. It's so bizarre to me that I 13 just think it's beyond argument, but even if that were 14 the case, there's been so much controversy about this 15 pilotage thing that I think it certainly could be 16 argued to the jury at this point as to what it means 17 and whether or not it's reckless or not but to take it 18 in terms of an actual citing the statute or regulation 19 and saying well, then, you know, you have to fined -- I 20 guess you have to find that he is beyond a reasonable 21 doubt, he violated that and then consider that as 22 whether or not he, beyond a reasonable doubt, was 23 guilty of recklessness. And the two just don't go hand 24 in hand.

25 I mean these regulations were -- I mean the

1 penalty involved, for instance, of this pilotage thing 2 is a $500 civil fine. That's the importance the 3 government places on it. The federal government. The 4 state wants to argue if you violate that, you're guilty
5 of a sentence up to five years. And it just makes no 6 sense.

7 THE COURT: Mr. Madson, state's instructions
8 39 through 45. Do I infer from your comments that 9 you object to those instructions?

10 MR. MADSON: Yes.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Is there anything else you 12 wish to add to your trial memorandum in support of the 13 request for those jury instructions?

14 MR. ADAMS: 39 through 45, Your Honor?

15 THE COURT: That's correct.

16 MR. ADAMS: No, Your Honor. I'd like to 17 respond to Mr. Madson's argument about the Coast Guard 18 regulations, but that's separate.

19 (0498)

20 THE COURT: Okay, I will not be giving 21 instructions 39 through 45. I find them to be a 22 comment on the evidence. That would be akin to almost 23 directing the verdict in some cases. Their argument, 24 and I don't find Michaels versus State to be authority 25 for those instructions nor Westinghouse or any of the 1 Captain of the Port orders or any treatises on point 2 -- to be authority to give these instructions.

3 Let's start with state's instruction number 1, 4 Mr. Madson.

5 MR. MADSON: One second, Your Honor. I'm 6 going back to what the Court said is -- what about 7 instruction 38 -- number 38?

8 THE COURT: We haven't got to that. I just 9 asked you about 39 through 45. That's all I was 10 concerned with at the time. We didn't discuss that 11 one...

12 MR. MADSON: Oh, okay.

13 THE COURT: ...so there's been no ruling on 14 that.

15 MR. MADSON: Okay.

16 THE COURT; Let's go back to number 1. Any 17 objection to number 1?

18 MR. MADSON: No.

19 THE COURT: Number 2?

20 MR. MADSON: No.

21 THE COURT: Number 3?

22 MR. MADSON: No. There's a typo there
23 obviously, but I mean the emphasis was is all one word.
24 The second line.

25 THE COURT: I'm sure that we can get that

1 squared away. Number 4?

2 MR. MADSON: This appears to be the regular 3 commonly used pattern instruction, Your Honor. I, you 4 know, have no objection to that.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I think that's the one I
6 gave at the beginning of the case and it is a pattern.
7 Now, the order in which the state presented these 8 instructions will not be the order in which the Court 9 gives them by any means but the word unlawfully as 10 proposed in instruction number 5 will be given by the 11 Court in another place. Is there any objection to that 12 one?

13 MR. MADSON: No.

14 THE COURT: Number 6?

15 MR. MADSON: No objection.

16 THE COURT: Number 7?

17 MR. MADSON: Probably, it should include 18 information, Your Honor, just to make sure the 19 covered...

20 THE COURT: The indictment and the 21 information are the charging documents?

22 MR. MADSON: Right.

23 THE COURT: Is that agreeable to the state?

24 MR. ADAMS: Yes.

25 THE COURT: Number 9, we've gone through

1 that. Number 10?
2 MR. MADSON: No objection to that.
3 THE COURT: Number 11?
4 MR. MADSON; No objection.
5 THE COURT: Number 12?
6 MR. MADSON: No objection.
7 THE COURT: Number 13?
8 MR. MADSON: Yeah, I object to that one.
9 THE COURT: Your grounds?
10 MR. MADSON: That there was no evidence of an 11 admission or confession, Your Honor. And I think it 12 simply probably goes to a statement made by Captain 13 Hazelwood which the state would argue was an admission 14 but I think under the statutory definition or the 15 definition here, it doesn't even come within this, to 16 say that the inference -- inference of guilt or intend 17 to prove guilt because it wasn't given in the context 18 of the total situation.

19 In other words, the only evidence of an admission
20 would be the statements by Captain Hazelwood to Mr.
21 Myers, an Exxon official, and it just was totally out 22 of context of the whole picture so I would object to 23 it.

24 THE COURT: Argument is not necessary. All of 25 Captain Hazelwood's statements, the recordings, the

1 statement by Fox, came in as an admission. Otherwise
2 they wouldn't have come in because of hearsay. Number 3 13 will be given. Your objection is noted, however.

4 Number 14?

5 MR. MADSON: No objection.

6 THE COURT: Number 15?

7 MR. MADSON: No objection. I think that's 8 required.

9 (0738)

10 THE COURT: Number 16?

11 MR. MADSON: Just seems to be -- I think this 12 is a pattern jury instruction. I'm not sure but...

13 THE COURT: It's real close to it. They vary 14 a little bit. The last paragraph varies in some cases, 15 but this is one of the ones I did.

16 MR. MADSON: I guess the last sentence is the 17 only thing that I was -- didn't ring a bell as I'd seen 18 before, but the rest of it is certainly consistent with 19 other jury instructions.

20 THE COURT: Okay. 17, we've amended.

21 MR. MADSON; Uh-huh (affirmative).

22 THE COURT: Number 18?

23 MR. MADSON: No objection.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Number 19?

25 MR. MADSON: Well, it's a definition of 1 negligently but I would object to it being used in this 2 case. I think we need the definition of criminal 3 negligence which this one is not. The state has 4 eliminated substantial as far as a risk is concerned 5 and it should be a gross deviation, not just a 6 deviation.

7 THE COURT: The state filed a trial
8 memorandum on this point. That's what you're referring 9 to?

10 MR. MADSON: Yes.

11 THE COURT: Okay, Mr. Adams are you handling 12 this argument?

13 MR. ADAMS: Yes.

14 THE COURT: Okay. I read your trial
15 memorandum. You would concede that negligent driving 16 would be an ordinary civil standard of negligence, 17 would you not?

18 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, I haven't thought that 19 issue through. I'd like to refer to the statute and 20 read it real closely to see what the legislature stated 21 and what the case law is.

22 THE COURT: I'm just referring to Comeau 23 citations by the state here, page 115, 758 P.2nd 108 at 24 115 and 116. "In context, the reason for inclusion 25 of an actual endangerment requirement in the negligent

1 driving provision is obvious because the statutory 2 definition of negligence incorporates the same standard 3 of ordinary care used in cases of civil negligence.
4 The added requirement of actual endangerment is 5 necessary to protect against the possibility" and it 6 goes on. I just assumed that they were referring to 7 the same civil standard of negligence.

8 MR. ADAMS: I'm not familiar with that case,
9 Your Honor. I mean I can...

10 THE COURT: Why then should we deviate from 11 the statutory definition of criminal negligence for 12 negligent discharge of oil?

13 MR. ADAMS: Well, Your Honor, in Reynolds, the 14 case -- the Reynolds -- Court says "we conclude in the 15 absence of legislative direction something greater than 16 proof of simple negligence should be required for 17 conviction for driving while license is suspended."

18 Here we had the legislature saying negligence.
19 They don't say with criminal negligence. When the 20 legislature -- not all the time, but in some cases, 21 when they require criminal negligence, they say 22 criminal negligence. Here they're not saying criminal 23 negligence; they're saying negligence. And there's 24 absolutely no reason to infer that when the legislature 25 says negligence, they mean criminal negligence in these

1 circumstances.

2 THE COURT: Well, what did Gregory mean then 3 that said "we conclude that in the absence of 4 legislative direction, something greater than proof of 5 simple negligence should be required for conviction for 6 driving while driver's license is suspended."

7 MR. ADAMS: In that -- in the DWI statute, 8 there is no specification for required mens rea and so 9 they had to infer what the legislature wanted and 10 because of the severe penalties, the ten-day mandatory 11 minimum and the one year loss of license under the DWI 12 -- driving while license suspended statute, the Court 13 said simple negligence is not enough. We're going to 14 have to infer criminal negligence and they gave the 15 clear impression that if the Court had -- or if the 16 legislature had said that the mens rea for DWLS was 17 negligence as opposed to criminal negligence, that the 18 Court would have absolutely no discretion to do 19 anything other than uphold that statute.

20 I'm aware of no authority which says a person 21 cannot be held criminally liable under a negligent
22 standard, and in fact, La Fave in substantive criminal 23 law specifically says that people can be held 24 criminally liable for a negligent standard. It's rare.
25 I mean, granted, it is rare. Usually under the common

1 law, they call it culpable negligence which is 2 essentially recklessness standard, but they do 3 recognize, under some circumstances, the person can be 4 held criminally liable.

5 THE COURT: In Reynolds, was there anything
6 in the definition of the commercial fishing violation 7 he was charged with that had the term, negligent, in 8 it?

9 MR. ADAMS: No, it was silent.

10 THE COURT: So, in that case, they said we 11 determine that at least simple negligence has to be 12 proved?

13 MR. ADAMS: Right. Exactly.

14 THE COURT: And was the issue in that case 15 whether it should be criminally negligent or just 16 negligent or was it....

17 MR. ADAMS: The issue whether they should be 18 -- I think that case came before the revision of the 19 criminal code, I believe, where we had a criminally 20 negligent standard. So the issue there was whether it 21 was negligence or recklessness.

22 THE COURT: That case came in 1982, after we 23 had the criminal negligence?

24 MR. COLE: Judge, the case on point is State 25 versus Septien and that's the one I wrote the brief

1 for. It specifically addresses that issue that was 2 addressed in dicta in Reynolds.

3 THE COURT: I am referring to Mr. Adams' trial 4 memorandum where he is arguing this very issue, whether 5 we should use simple negligence or criminal negligence.

6 MR. ADAMS: Well, Your Honor, in light of the 7 language, it says at legislative direction and we have 8 legislative direction here. It says negligence and it 9 doesn't seem reasonable to infer that when the 10 legislature says negligence, they actually mean 11 criminal negligence. This Court -- the rules of 12 statutory construction require the Court to give -- or 13 to accept the meaning of the statute unless it's 14 ambiguous. There's nothing ambiguous about the word 15 negligence.

16 THE COURT: Well, how about in Gregory? What 17 does the DWLS statute say in terms of negligence?

18 MR. ADAMS: It's silent. See, that's why the 19 Court had to infer. The various district courts around 20 the state were either using the criminal negligence 21 standard or a recklessness standard under the DWLS and 22 in the Gregory case, they used a criminal negligence 23 standard and defendant appealed, saying no, it's 24 silent, you should make me -- the mens rea should be 25 recklessness and the Court of Appeals said no, criminal

1 negligence is enough to convict this person, but they 2 specifically said negligence is not enough because of 3 severe penalties and they went on to say without 4 legislative direction, negligence is not enough. So we 5 infer criminal negligence. Here we have legislative 6 direction so it must be negligence standard. And 7 there is -- well...

8 THE COURT: Since the statute talks in terms
9 of just the word negligence and not criminal 10 negligence, you're saying that is legislative 11 direction?

12 MR. ADAMS: That's correct, yes. And there 13 are statutes which state that a person can be convicted 14 with criminal negligence. I believe that -- I can't 15 cite a statute right off the top of my head which 16 contains the word, criminal negligence, but there are 17 plenty of them in Title 11 which state the mens rea is 18 criminal negligence. And the legislature could have 19 said criminal negligence. Could have called it 20 criminal negligent discharge of oil but they called it 21 negligent discharge of oil.

22 MR. MADSON: Your Honor, on that point, it's 23 unclear whether the legislature actually meant civil or 24 criminal negligence, but I don't think we can just take 25 that one word out of the context of the entire statute

1 we're dealing with here. If the Court looks at the 2 criminal penalties involved, they also use the term 3 "knowingly". That's a term that is certainly 4 addressed by our criminal code in this definition.
5 They say if it's knowingly done, -- oil is knowingly 6 discharged, it is a Class A misdemeanor. If it is 7 done negligently, it's a Class B.

8 It would seem to me the legislature was looking 9 at the different mens rea requirements and it didn't 10 -- it wouldn't make any sense to go from knowingly all 11 the way down to civil negligence and still have a 12 penalty that's up to six months in jail. I mean 13 there's quite gap there between a knowingly requirement 14 which is a pretty severe standard of proof that 15 somebody knowingly discharged a quantity of oil and all 16 the way down to a civil standard of just being 17 negligent and yet the penalty involved is still a very 18 great one. It's still up to six months as opposed to 19 one year.

20 So in looking at it in context of what the 21 legislature was attempting to do, it seems to me that 22 they were inferring, if not using the word, they were 23 trying to make it clear that criminal negligence must 24 be the standard and I -- this is -- and I just learned 25 yesterday that the -- and I was aware of the statute

1 that's being introduced down there; it's in committee
2 right now in Juneau to up the penalties for negligent 3 discharge of oil or negligent operation of a tanker.
4 It's been modified now to try to create a law which 5 didn't exist before as we've argued already. The 6 legislature is now arguing with this, trying to come up 7 with a law that covers this for the future. Negligent 8 operation of a tanker. It was the government's 9 position there -- the state's position that the 10 negligent requirement and it just said negligent as far 11 as the statute is concerned, required criminal 12 negligence.

13 Now, I know that's in a different context but 14 it's still in the same subject matter and the state 15 seems to be, once again, taking the position elsewhere 16 contrary to what they're saying here.

17 THE COURT: Okay, I don't have a lot of 18 authority to go by on this but it seems that the Title 19 11 deals in terms of criminally negligent offenses.
20 They use the term, criminally negligence and then 21 there's a definition of criminal negligence. This is 22 found in another title altogether and it deals in terms 23 of negligence.

24 If the legislature had intended it to be 25 criminal negligence, I think they would have used it.

1 They exhibited the ability to use it in Title 11 so why
2 didn't they in the statute in question here. I think 3 that is a -- the term negligent as used should be given 4 a civil meaning and the courts have given civil 5 meanings to the term negligent in a criminal context as 6 set forth in Reynolds and I've discussed the difference 7 between them in Gregory.

8 In Gregory, the law was silent on the term and 9 the Court held that because of the severe minimum 10 penalties for violation of the DWLS statute, the state 11 had to prove more than simple negligence. In this 12 case, there is direction and there are no severe 13 minimum penalties that exist in the statute that I can 14 see. So we're going to give instruction number 19 as 15 it has been submitted.

16 (1280)

17 (Pause)

18 (1315)

19 THE COURT: Number 20? Mr. Madson, is there 20 an objection to?

21 MR. MADSON: Yes, there is, Your Honor. The 22 state is totally wrong on this one. What they've done 23 is combine recklessness and negligence and say it 24 applies equally. The term reckless should not be in 25 there at all. This is a negligent standard. In other

1 words, to determine recklessness on the part of 2 somebody, the state has to prove that he actually knew 3 of and consciously disregarded the risk and that 4 requires then that he -- that knowing his intelligence, 5 his knowledge of the situation, his background, all his 6 education, all these things that he knew of and 7 disregarded, that's -- unfortunately I was proposing an 8 instruction I was going to have in hopefully today and 9 certainly Monday that covered the same thing as far as 10 recklessness is concerned because there's a state 11 decision on that. Unfortunately, I don't have it with 12 me and I can't for the life of me remember the name of 13 it, but it's one I've cited earlier in fact on this 14 topic.

15 Secondly, if you're going to use this to 16 determine negligence, it should judge his actions
17 according to standard of care that a reasonably prudent 18 person would employ, not necessarily tanker captain.
19 That could be argued under the same or similar 20 circumstances, but I don't think the term, tanker 21 captain, is necessary. That's up to argument whether 22 or not it was negligence or not in the same or similar 23 circumstances. But certainly recklessness doesn't 24 belong in there.

25 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, in drafting this

1 instruction, I didn't mean to intend -- or didn't 2 intend that this be used as a standard of conduct for 3 what the definition of reckless or negligent is. All 4 this is designed is to show what a reasonable person 5 is. In these circumstances, a reasonable person would 6 have -- is the reasonably prudent tanker captain. You 7 can apply this instruction back to the previous two in 8 determining what a reasonable person is.

9 An instruction like this has been used for ages 10 as far as what a reasonable person is and what a 11 reasonable doctor is is what a reasonable doctor is.
12 What a reasonable driver is what a reasonable drier is 13 and it wasn't designed to change the standard of care.
14 It's just a definition of what a reasonable person is.

15 THE COURT: This might fit into a civil 16 context but I don't believe it has any place in this 17 case. Instruction number 20 as proposed by the state 18 is, I believe, argumentative and an improper comment on 19 the evidence. I will not be giving instruction number 20 20.

21 Anything with number 21, Mr. Madson?

22 MR. MADSON; No, Your Honor. No problem.

23 THE COURT: Number 22, Mr. Madson?

24 MR. MADSON; I'm just checking to insure 25 they're all covered, Your Honor, but it looks like that

1 this tracks the statutory language. Yeah, I have no 2 problem.

3 THE COURT: Number 25?

4 MR. MADSON: No problem. That's correct.
5 Your Honor, could we take a short break? I've got to 6 run across the hall for a minute.

7 THE COURT: We'll come back in about 10 or 15 8 minutes.

9 THE CLERK: Please rise. This Court stands 10 in recess.

11 (Off record - 10:22 a.m.)

12 (On record - 10:45 a.m.)

13 (1467)

14 THE COURT: We'll go through a few more here
15 and then, we'll call it a day and come back on Monday 16 where I can give you a copy of the Court's proposed 17 instructions. We're on state's number 26.

18 MR. MADSON: That's all right, Your Honor, I 19 have no objection.

20 THE COURT: All right, now we're going to 21 contrast number -- state's number 27 and defendant's 22 number 4. First, where did you get number 27, Mr.
23 Adams?

24 MR. ADAMS: That is out of the standard 25 district court DWI packet. That's the one that...

THE COURT: Okay, that's verbatim?

MR. ADAMS: That's verbatim, yes.

THE COURT: Okay. Where did you get number 4?

MR. MADSON: Same place, Your Honor. This is the one that's given in every case in Fairbanks since I've been there for 20 years. It's standard operating procedure to give this instruction. I think it just does a better job than 27 does.

THE COURT: But does the state have any objection to number 4 -- defendant's number 4?

MR. COLE: I think they both say essentially the same thing.

THE COURT: Okay, I'll give instruction number 4 in place of number 27. State's number 31?

MR. MADSON: No objection, Your Honor. I'm sorry. I was day dreaming here a second.

THE COURT: State's 32?

MR. MADSON: The only question I had on that, that modifies the definition. I wasn't sure when that took effect and I wanted to check that out, but otherwise, I wouldn't have any objection if it was in effect at the time.

MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, the only thing that was taken out of this definition from the statutory is about the wrongful abortion.

1 MR. MADSON: Let me say it's okay for now,
2 Your Honor, unless I find out for some reason that it
3 simply wasn't in effect at the time of the Valdez
4 incident. I have no reason to believe it wasn't; I 5 just know it was modified by A. Before, the definition 6 was just under B.

7 THE COURT: Okay, unless I hear differently
8 from you, I'll leave the burden on you to...

9 MR. MADSON: That's fine.

10 THE COURT: ...let me know. It will be given.
11 It looks to me, Mr. Madson, it's the same as it's been 12 for several years. Number 33?

13 MR. MADSON; Okay, that's no problem.

14 THE COURT: Number 34? Other than the term, 15 criminally negligent, any objection to it?

16 MR. MADSON: No, Your Honor. I wouldn't have 17 any objection anyway. I think my concern would be that 18 negligent would be defined elsewhere anyway.

19 THE COURT: All right. So, 34 is okay?

20 MR. MADSON: Yeah, it's okay.

21 THE COURT: 35?

22 MR. MADSON; That's all right.

23 THE COURT: 37?

24 MR. MADSON: That's all right. That's 25 pattern instruction.

1 THE COURT: All right, some of the boiler
2 plate instructions in the back, I've changed a little 3 bit. I've put in a different order. There are a few 4 that were not given that should be given by the Court.
5 When I give you the package, I'll be asking your what 6 specific instructions you object to in the package and 7 if there are some of those in the back you have 8 problems with, we can deal with them then. But for 9 the most part, they're okay; they're just out of order 10 and I've consolidated a couple and some of them are 11 duplicitous so I've improved on them somewhat.

12 Let's do number 38. Mr. Adams, do you have any 13 statutory or any case law to support such an 14 instruction?

15 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, I had this South
16 Dakota case and the way I found that was I used West 17 Law and put in some instructions about violation of a 18 regulation as evidence of recklessness and I came up 19 with that case and I reviewed it and it -- Mr. Madson 20 described it accurately. It's a case where a person 21 parked a motor vehicle on a road and just left it there 22 and violated a number of rules of the road. At his 23 trial for manslaughter, the jury was instructed 24 regarding those violations of rules of the road and 25 they were described. My instruction here was -- what I

1 proposed to do is draft instructions different than 2 that upon further discussion between Ms. Henry and I.
3 We decided that we would give an instruction of what 4 the offense is. The bottle to throttle one is the one 5 we're talking about in particular and the .04. And 6 then there's the pilotage regulation. Those are 7 evidence of -- can be used as evidence.

8 THE COURT: The Court did not take judicial 9 notice of the 04, if you recall.

10 MR. ADAMS: Then if the Court is going to 11 refuse to take judicial notice of the 04, then 12 supposing you're not going to allow us to instruct the 13 jury on that statute; however, the bottle to throttle, 14 the four-hour Coast Guard regulation, the 33 CFR part 15 95, the jury has been informed of that and if they find 16 that there is a violation, and that's a simple statute, 17 a simple regulation.

18 If a person consumes alcohol within four hours of 19 assuming duties on board the vessel, he's in violation 20 of it and every single tanker captain that came in here 21 testified that they're aware of that regulation. It's 22 something that they...

23 THE COURT: So that's part of the evidence on 24 recklessness is what you're asserting?

25 MR. ADAMS: That's correct, yes. We would

1 argue...

2 THE COURT: And that's in evidence already,
3 isn't it?

4 MR. ADAMS: That's correct, yes.

5 THE COURT: Is there anything that would 6 prevent you from arguing that without this instruction?

7 MR. ADAMS: No. However, I just based on that 8 South Dakota case. It's a new case. They found no 9 error in instructing the jury in that manner. We can 10 argue that but based on that case, I proposed the jury 11 instruction.

12 THE COURT: Okay, why don't you go ahead and 13 propose the one Monday morning. Let me have it by no 14 later than Monday morning. It would be helpful if I 15 could get it by this afternoon, but I understand it may 16 be difficult. I thought you were going to redraft an 17 instruction?

18 MR. ADAMS: Yes, I am. But my question is may 19 I redraft an instruction for the pilotage violation 20 also, under 46 USC 8502 or are you limiting solely to 21 the bottle to throttle regulation, because...

22 THE COURT: I said you could redraft an 23 instruction; I didn't say I'd give it.

24 MR. ADAMS: Right. I understand that. I 25 understand that. But are you contemplating both the 1 pilotage violation and the bottle to throttle or just 2 solely the bottle to throttle?

3 THE COURT: Mr. Adams, those are your 4 instructions. I'm not contemplating anything. We can 5 argue that, but my inclination is whenever you start 6 commenting on an item of evidence, you unfairly 7 highlight that item and it may, in the eyes of the 8 jury, take on greater meaning than it should and I 9 consider that as evidence, the four-hour rule as 10 evidence. That's been admitted and you're certainly 11 entitled to argue that that goes to a person's 12 recklessness if he's going to violate a regulation if 13 the jury finds that he drank, that's a regulation. You 14 can argue that maybe effectively. I don't know, but to 15 highlight that one particular item of evidence in an 16 instruction may give undue influence to it and that's 17 what my concern is and I generally don't do that.

18 MR. ADAMS: I'll draft additional 19 instructions, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. ADAMS: And I'll look for additional 22 authority.

23 (1960)

24 THE COURT: Okay. Now, is there going to be 25 any objection to the Court giving lesser included

1 offenses to the DWI?

2 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, our concern deals with 3 the word, driving, and it's reckless driving and 4 negligent driving and it's unclear whether that applies 5 to a motor -- to a watercraft. I think that in the 6 definition of operate under 2835.030, it's called 7 operate a watercraft and operate is different than 8 drive. Someone drives a car. A car has tires. Or 9 someone drives a snow machine.

10 THE COURT: Does the definition of reckless 11 driving or negligent driving contain the definition of 12 motor vehicle or a watercraft?

13 MR. MADSON: Well, there's two ways you can 14 approach this, Your Honor. I would say, yes, it 15 does. That the...

16 THE COURT: What's the statute?

17 MR. MADSON: Well, I don't have it right in 18 front of me. That's one of the problems. I don't 19 have it right here, but in addition to that under Title 20 5, it certainly does. There, negligent and reckless 21 operation of a watercraft is covered and it's a penalty 22 and it's a criminal crime and it's addressed in there 23 under operation while under the influence or while 24 intoxicated. So there are really two statutes saying 25 the same thing, but if there was any question of 1 whether or not you can recklessly or negligently

2 operate a watercraft, the answer is in Title 5.

3 It says -- we've already went through this on the 4 preemption thing, but the Court ruled that the state 5 was not preempted from enforcing its state laws and 6 regulations concerning commercial watercraft which this 7 was. And under Title 5, then it says for recreational 8 and any other purpose, it is illegal to operate either 9 negligently or recklessly. And then the next one is 10 while under the influence. So...

11 THE COURT: Let me ask Mr. Adams again. Is 12 there any objection to...

13 MR. ADAMS: Well, Your Honor, this morning, I 14 reviewed the negligent driving and reckless driving. I 15 have an objection based on the word, driving. Driving 16 has a meaning of driving a car, driving a snow machine, 17 so...

18 THE COURT: You're suggesting it should be 19 operating...

20 MR. ADAMS: Well, I mean I don't think...

21 THE COURT: ...a watercraft? The term,
22 operate a watercraft while recklessly or negligently.
23 Is that what you're saying?

24 MR. ADAMS: Right. If my memory serves me
25 correctly, Title 5, the definition of watercraft

1 specifically says for recreational purposes. It does 2 not say for other purposes. It says recreational 3 purposes. It has the language used or capable of 4 being used as a means of transportation for 5 recreational purposes. Title 5 does not apply to a 6 commercial vessel. Therefore, we are looking solely at 7 Title 28.

8 THE COURT: Are you saying that there is no
9 such crime as operating a commercial watercraft 10 negligently or recklessly?

11 MR. ADAMS: I'm not aware -- unless the crime 12 of reckless driving in Title 28 applies. Now, I have 13 not looked real closely at Title 5 to see if that would 14 apply but I'm just giving my memory the definition of 15 watercraft. I'll go back and look at Title 5 to see 16 if it does apply and if Mr. Madson is correct, then 17 we're not going to have an argument because if there is 18 a statute against reckless operating a watercraft in 19 Title 5, then that applies. I'll take a look at it.
20 As far as my position now is that drive means to drive 21 a land vehicle, drive a snow machine or drive an air 22 boat on land.

23 MR. MADSON: Air boat?

24 THE COURT: You would concede an air boat 25 would be...

1 MR. ADAMS: Well, see that's -- Mr. Madson
2 is familiar with that case where someone who was 3 driving an air boat on land and he was convicted 4 driving while intoxicated for driving his air boat. He 5 tried to go from the Chena River up to a bar in his air 6 boat...

7 MR. MADSON: Darn near made it too, I might 8 add.

9 MR. ADAMS: ...and he was convicted of 10 driving, because he was on the road, on his air boat.
11 So this issue has been approached before.

12 (2143)

13 THE COURT: Okay. Well, why don't we leave 14 it until Monday morning. (Pause) Looking at 15 defendant's number 2. The defendant has already 16 agreed on an elements instruction for operating a 17 watercraft while intoxicated under number 26 of the 18 state's instructions. I'm not sure I understand what 19 number 2 is all about now.

20 MR. MADSON: It's not necessary any more, Your 21 Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay, number 2 is withdrawn then?

23 MR. MADSON: Uh-huh (affirmative).

24 THE COURT: Defendant's instruction number 16.
25 Mr. Adams?

1 MR. ADAMS: No objection, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay. That's about all we can go

3 over right now. What I'll do is I'll put together a

4 package of the ones the Court is going to be proposing

5 based on this hearing today and what the Court would

6 expect might occur but I'll leave open room for 7 argument on the ones we haven't discussed and we can

8 meet back on Monday morning at say, 9 o'clock. How 9 does -- is there anything else we can do now?

10 MR. MADSON: The only thing I can think of 11 Your Honor is if we can -- if the Court wants to set

12 some time limits on argument. That will be the next

13 thing that comes up and give us some idea of what to 14 shoot for in terms of preparation.

15 THE COURT: How much time do you need, Mr.

16 Cole? Are you going to be breaking it up in any way

17 or are you going to handle both sides of it?

18 MR. COLE: I'm going to handle both sides.

19 THE COURT: How much time do you think you

20 need?

21 MR. COLE: Three and a half hours.

22 THE COURT: I'd like to do it in a day.

23 MR. COLE: Oh, yes. My part's going to be 24 done in that.

25 THE COURT: Is that going to be enough for

1 you? Two or three hours?

2 MR. MADSON: Oh, well, we say two or three 3 hours. If we say three hours each, I think we can do 4 it in a day. If we start looking at three and a half 5 hours or longer, then I don't know any jury that's 6 going to sit there. I wouldn't wish that on anybody, 7 to listen to two lawyers for eight hours.

8 THE COURT: How much time do you need?

9 MR. MADSON: I would say three hours would be 10 the minimum and I would like to keep it at that.

11 THE COURT: That would be the maximum then 12 too, right?

13 MR. MADSON: Maximum and minimum, yeah. It's 14 going to take that long and if I'm exceeding that, then 15 I'm probably going too far. Three hours would be my 16 guess.

17 THE COURT: Well, if we get started at 8:30
18 which we won't. We probably won't get started until 9 19 if we're lucky. 9 until 12. That would be three. An 20 hour for lunch. 1 until 4 is three more.
21 Instructions are going to last about an hour; they're 22 so lengthy. It's 5 o'clock. That's stretching it.
23 I don't mind doing it but three hours seems a little 24 long to me for both of you, but I think that's an 25 outside estimate, I imagine.

1 MR. COLE: That's an outside estimate for me,
2 Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: I generally don't restrict 4 argument but we'll restrict it this time to not more 5 than three hours in total for the state or the 6 defendant and I'll let you know if you're getting close 7 to it.

8 Anything else we can do?

9 MR. MADSON: I don't think so.

10 MR. COLE: Judge, all we would ask is maybe if 11 you could keep the courtroom open for a couple minutes 12 so that we could look at the exhibits after you're done 13 here. Is that okay?

14 THE COURT: We require -- the in-court will 15 have to stay here then.

16 MR. COLE: Well, at least sometime between now 17 and closing, we'd like to spend a half an hour and 18 get...

19 THE COURT: Why don't we do that when Scott 20 gets back here? He's much more familiar with the 21 exhibits and then on Monday, you all can make sure all 22 the exhibits are in and we can take that up on Monday 23 sometime.

24 MR. COLE: Okay.

25 THE COURT: Last chance. Okay. We're in 1 recess on this.

2 THE CLERK: Please rise.

5 (Jury not present)

6 THE CLERK: ... the Honorable Karl S.
7 Johnstone presiding is now in session.

8 THE COURT: You may be seated. Thank you.

9 I just received a couple additional 10 instructions. Why don't you log these in, Scott? It 11 looks like they're originals.

12 MR. MADSON: Your Honor, I have something in 13 addition. It was filed this morning, but I think 14 it's -- what I did is the court requested it have a 15 memorandum on proposed instructions. There's been a 16 radical change here. I think it certainly would 17 require the court to consider our latest request.

18 THE COURT: Why don't you tell me what your 19 latest request is? Is this request as of today, now?

20 MR. MADSON: Yes. Yeah. Your Honor, the 21 court already has in its proposed instructions the 22 lesser included offenses of reckless driving and 23 negligent driving under DWI. In thinking about this, 24 pondering a little bit more and looking at cases
25 involving lesser included offenses in Alaska it

1 appeared to me that it was more appropriate to put the 2 lesser included offenses of reckless driving and 3 negligent driving as lesser included of criminal 4 mischief in the second degree.

5 Now, on the surface that obviously sounds 6 strange because the elements are totally different, but 7 on the Alaska approach that's taken they don't take the 8 elements approach. And the Alaska cases all indicate 9 you must look to the facts, and whether or not the 10 facts and the evidence justify the lesser included, 11 whether they fall within the technical elements, or 12 not.

13 So, what we have here, and I think I point it 14 out in my memorandum, is essentially that the jury in 15 looking at the criminal mischief case has to find 16 recklessness, obviously. And they have to find, then, 17 that there was the risk of damage to property over 18 $100,000 by widely dangerous means.

19 Now, the jury could easily, it was certainly 20 contested throughout this trial, they could easily find 21 that there was no -- that the risk involved was not a 22 substantial one, but at the same time in order to find 23 that the defendant acted recklessly they'd have to find 24 he did so by the operation of a vessel.

25 Now, there's two statutes that come into play

1 here and I've raised them both. One is under Title 5, 2 which is the -- that's water craft under that section, 3 and also, then, under Title 28. Either one applies.

4 But certainly under Title 28, since under any 5 definition, or at least it's the definition that's in 6 our Title 28 Motor Vehicle Statutes, a vessel which is 7 self propelled is a motor vehicle, even though there's 8 a second definition of watercraft. It is still a motor 9 vehicle.

10 And under the section called Driver, that 11 means you either drive, or that you have actual 12 physical control over that motor vehicle. The court's 13 already found that Captain Hazelwood had actual 14 physical control. What we have is a driver of a motor 15 vehicle. And that simply fits all the necessary 16 requirements of a lesser included offense.

17 So, in summary, Your Honor, what we're saying 18 is that we're withdrawing our request that reckless 19 driving and negligent driving be lesser included of 20 DWI, but that they be made lesser included offenses of 21 the felony charge.

22 THE COURT: Mr. Adams?

23 MR. ADAMS: Well, Your Honor, I haven't had 24 time to read defendant's request in detail. I skimmed 25 through it. The State has no opposition to a lesser

1 included of reckless driving or negligent driving to 2 the DWI charge. I think under Title 5 that that's 3 appropriate.

4           However, as far as the criminal mischief,
5 again, I haven't had time to really review the request, 6 but it seems like they're completely different charges.
7 One we have criminal mischief, which involves 8 recklessly creating a risk of damage to the property of 9 another in excess of $100,000 and a person who 10 negligently drives, or recklessly drives.

11           If the jury finds that the defendant did 12 anything reckless it's inconceivable that they could 13 find him not guilty of criminal mischief in the second 14 degree. This court can rule as a matter of law for the 15 purpose of these motions that oil is a widely dangerous 16 means that property of another was risked and in excess 17 of $100,000. So, reckless driving can't be a lesser 18 included offense of the criminal mischief.

19           As far as negligent driving, again, they're 20 comparing apples and oranges. The elements are 21 different.

22           What the State would request is an 23 opportunity to review the defendant's proposed 24 instruction, review their authority, and file something 25 in writing later on this afternoon. Right now I'm not

1 prepared to go forward on the argument.

2 THE COURT: Mr. Madson, do you wish to be 3 heard any further on this issue? Just on this issue.

4 MR. MADSON: Just on this issue, Your Honor.

5 I think there's only one case that needs to be 6 reviewed and it's already been quoted by the State and 7 it's been quoted by myself...

8 THE COURT: Comeau.

9 MR. MADSON: And that's Comeau. That's right.

10 And I think one needs to look very closely at 11 the language in there of what the court says is the 12 test for a lesser included offense. That would cause 13 me to rethink this after re-reading this case. It 14 appeared to me quite clear that Mr. Adams is correct.

15 It isn't that it's not an elements approach.
16 They very clearly take the approach that you must look 17 at the facts of a given case in the interest of 18 fairness and justice as to whether or not a lesser 19 included should be available to the defendant, not 20 because the elements fit but because the facts fit.

21 So, I would just urge the court to look at 22 that case once again with that request in mind.

23 (285)

24 THE COURT: All right. I gave some thought to 25 this already. It's something that I was wondering

1 about over the weekend. I saw counsel down here, and 2 you can infer that I was doing about the same thing you 3 were.

4 Whether we can -- I don't think I'll be doing 5 this, Mr. Madson, and the reason is I think that the 6 criminal mischief statute focuses on the risk that is 7 created, whereas the other statutes you're asking to be 8 lesser included focus on the conduct. And I think even 9 under the conduct theory of lesser included they would 10 not be included offenses.

11 So, my inclination is -- and I'm going to -- 12 as I say once again, it's not final, but it's real 13 close to final. I'm going to do a little more research 14 on it since you have requested it, but my inclination 15 is that you will not be getting a lesser included of 16 reckless and negligent driving to the criminal mischief 17 charge. They will remain, if you ask me for them, to 18 the DWI.

19 I don't know if your -- assuming you don't get 20 the lesser included in the criminal mischief, did you 21 want to continue having them for the DWI?

22 MR. MADSON: No, Your Honor. We're putting it 23 all or nothing here. We've discussed this at great 24 length and I might add that we have certainly conferred 25 with the defendant, because it's ultimately his choice

1 as to whether to ask for lesser includeds, or not. And 2 it's our position that they really belong under the 3 criminal mischief and not the other.

4 THE COURT: Mr. Adams, since the State has not 5 requested any lesser included I assume that they have 6 no objection to withdrawal, then, to the DWI?

7 MR. ADAMS: No, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Am I correct in that assumption?

9 MR. ADAMS: No objections, Your Honor, to 10 withdrawal.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let's go on to 12 matters we can handle right now.

13 Let's go on to the State's newly proposed 14 instructions. And for purposes of the record I'll 15 number them. The first one we'll talk about is the 16 instruction that starts out "If you find that the 17 defendant operated a watercraft while intoxicated..."
18 We'll number that State's Sup 1.

19 MR. MADSON: What was that number, Your Honor?

20 THE COURT: Supplemental 1.

21 MR. MADSON: Supplemental.

22 THE COURT: Have you found the one I'm talking 23 about?

24 MR. MADSON: Yes.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Is there objection to that?

1 MR. MADSON: Yes, there is, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Before you state your 3 grounds I wanted to make sure there was, or was not 4 objection.

5 Mr. Adams?

6 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor...

7 THE COURT: I read both cases, incidentally.

8 MR. ADAMS: The Comeau and Saint John case?

9 THE COURT: Uh-huh (affirmative).

10 MR. ADAMS: The only thing I'd like to point 11 out, Your Honor, is on page 113 of Comeau -- and that 12 case relied on Saint John and quoted some language of 13 the Saint John case which talks about permissive 14 inferences.

15 When the State is proving a DWI charge by use 16 of reckless conduct, in essence instead of relying on 17 the .10 or above theory, the State is saying defendant 18 drove recklessly. And under those circumstances the 19 court in Saint John is real clear that the State is 20 entitled to an instruction that the jury may infer that 21 a person who is driving while intoxicated is reckless.

22 THE COURT: Where does it say that?

23 MR. ADAMS: It says that on page 113, on 24 the...

25 THE COURT: The State's entitled to that

1 instruction? Whereabouts on that page?

2 MR. ADAMS: Well, I'll read -- it's on the 3 first full paragraph of the right hand side, the very 4 last paragraph, which starts about two thirds of the 5 page down. "Second, relying on case law prohibiting 6 the use of mandatory presumptions in criminal 7 cases...." And it has a long string of citations, "We 8 held that the legal relationship between drunken 9 driving and recklessness should have been communicated 10 to the jury in the form of a permissiveness, rather 11 than a mandatory presumption."

12 And that is the instruction that you've called 13 State Supplemental 1, that if the jury finds that the 14 defendant operated a watercraft while intoxicated you 15 may, but are not required to infer that the defendant 16 acted recklessly, or negligently.

17 I believe in the Saint John case the trial
18 judge, now looking on the left hand column of page 113, 19 last partial paragraph, first sentence. In Saint John, 20 another drunken driving manslaughter case, the trial 21 judge instructed the jury that it was required to find 22 that the defendant acted recklessly if he drove while 23 intoxicated.

24 The court said that as a matter of law the 25 Saint John court recognized that it was recklessness,

1 per se, to drive while intoxicated, however relying on 2 a number of U.S. Supreme Court cases, two, to be 3 precise, they said that you can't instruct a jury about 4 a mandatory presumption. You take away their job, 5 essentially.

6 THE COURT: I didn't read the cases you cited 7 as giving the court a mandate to give a State's 8 proposed instruction. I read the cases as a conclusion 9 by an appellate court that the trial court was in error 10 in giving a presumption instruction and reversed the 11 court for that. It was a defense issue. It wasn't a 12 State's request for an instruction. It was the 13 defendant's objection to the State's request. And as 14 I...

15 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, excuse me. I don't 16 mean to imply that you have to do this. It's just a 17 proposed instruction. And there is authority that if 18 you gave that proposed instruction that would not be in 19 error. By no means am I arguing that you have to give 20 it otherwise it is error.

21 This is a proposed instruction that would be 22 appropriate as a matter of law pursuant to Saint John.
23 So, it's your discretion. However, we argue that it is 24 appropriate.

25 THE COURT: Okay. I'm not going to be giving

1 it, Mr. Adams. If we had lesser includeds of reckless 2 operation of a water craft, or negligent operation of a 3 water craft that might be something I'd consider, 4 however, they've been withdrawn and for purpose of 5 determining whether or not the defendant recklessly 6 created a risk I think the issue is different than the 7 reckless conduct of the elements on reckless operating 8 of a watercraft.

9 And I believe it is permissive. And I don't 10 think it's error not to. I think it would be 11 argumentative. It might be improperly commenting on 12 the evidence, or highlighting the evidence
13 unnecessarily.

14 State's Supplemental 1 will not be given.

15 And why don't you use this as the official 16 record, Scott, because I'm writing down on this. That 17 will be the official thing that will go in the file.

18 State's Supplemental 2 starts out, "A Coast 19 Guard regulation prohibits..."

20 (590)

21 And I think we can deal with that instruction 22 together with the other two. The other one starts out, 23 "Coast Guard regulations prohibit an individual...." 24 And the third one, "At the time of the grounding the 25 Exxon Valdez...." So, they'll be State's Supplemental

1 2, 3 and 4.

2 As I understand, the regulations that you're 3 referring to in the instructions are in evidence. Is 4 that correct, Mr. Adams?

5 MR. ADAMS: My notes are unclear about the one 6 about the .04 percent Coast Guard regulation.

7 The first one is clearly in evidence. You 8 took judicial notice of the four hour requirement. And 9 that's in -- that's where our requirement is in 33 CFR
10 Title 95.

11 THE COURT: And that was taken...

12 MR. ADAMS: And that was taken judicial 13 notice. My notes are unclear whether the .04 percent 14 -- I don't think it was but I included that in the 15 event that it was. I'm not making a representation one 16 way or the other.

17 That instruction accurately outlines the law, 18 again, in Title 95 of...

19 THE COURT: Why should I give State's 20 Supplemental 2 to start off with? What legal authority 21 do you have to give an instruction on a particular item 22 of evidence that's admitted? Why would I want to 23 highlight this item of evidence more than the 24 testimony, opinion testimony given by experts that the 25 defendant operated recklessly?

1 MR. ADAMS: Well, again, Your Honor, relying
2 on the Martin case from South Dakota, which I believe 3 is a December 1989 South Dakota Supreme Court case 4 where the court gave an instruction where the last 5 sentence was identical to this sentence, about 6 violating a regulation -- and let's emphasize that the 7 regulation in South Dakota was not a criminal 8 regulation. It was a traffic infraction. You park 9 your vehicle on the side of the road you have to have 10 lights on it. You must park it off the side of the 11 road if you don't. Those type of things, where a 12 person gets a ticket, two or three points on his 13 license.

14 And the court gave an instruction which said 15 this is what the infraction is. And in the last 16 sentence, "If you find beyond a reasonable doubt that 17 the defendant violated this regulation, you may 18 consider such violation along with all other evidence, 19 facts, and circumstance in determining whether or not 20 the conduct and acts of the defendant were reckless and 21 negligent.

22 Now, relying on the Martin case this 23 instruction would be appropriate. And it doesn't 24 highlight any other evidence -- well, it does highlight 25 this evidence because it rises to the level of a

1 violation of a regulation.

2 The putting of the vessel on autopilot in 3 Prince William Sound is not being highlighted in the 4 instruction because that does not violate a regulation.
5 It violates the Exxon operation manual, but it doesn't 6 violate a regulation. Therefore we're not posing an 7 instruction. This rises to a different level. This is 8 more -- this is better evidence of recklessness.

9 Now, based on the Martin case we propose this 10 jury instruction. It's, of course, left to your 11 discretion. But, there is authority for this 12 instruction.

13 You want me to continue with the rest?

14 THE COURT: Sure. Let's do Supplemental 3.

15 MR. ADAMS: Well, my same arguments apply to 16 that one.

17 That Coast Guard regulation, if you do take 18 judicial notice of that, provides that a person can not 19 operate a vessel other than a recreational vessel when 20 the individual has a blood alcohol concentration of .0 21 percent by weight, or greater.

22 Now, again evidence of that violation is 23 greater. I mean, it's entitled to more weight. The 24 jury's entitled to consider that as greater weight of 25 the negligence or recklessness than some other

1 violation, or some other piece of evidence of 2 negligence or recklessness.

3 THE COURT: The statute, or the regulation 4 that I recall that I did not take judicial notice of 5 was a statute that was couched in terms of a .04 6 percent blood alcohol being considered intoxicated.
7 Now is that the one you're referring to?

8 MR. ADAMS: Yes. That's 33 CFR, part 95, 9 again.

10 THE COURT: And I don't have that right in 11 front of me, but I think that it was couched in some 12 terms that in reading it, if a person came to the 13 conclusion that Captain Hazelwood had a .04 they would 14 have to conclude he was intoxicated.

15 MR. ADAMS: That's correct, yes.

16 THE COURT: Well, I'm standing by my original 17 ruling. That will not come in. It won't come in 18 either in the form of instructions, or taking judicial 19 notice of it.

20 MR. ADAMS: Now going on to Supplemental 4, 21 which raises some other issues. Here about a month
22 ago, or three weeks ago I filed a motion for the court
23 to take judicial notice of Prince William Sound 24 pilotage law. On Friday the court stated that you were 25 not going to use the State's jury instructions 39

1 through 45, which were a recitation of that law, on the 2 grounds that they were argumentative.

3           However, you still haven't ruled on whether 4 you're going to take judicial notice of the law, and 5 the law as represented by 46 USC 8502, which requires, 6 "Any coastwise sea-going vessel in pilotage waters to 7 be under the direction and control of a licensed 8 officer with pilotage." That's clear as -- that is the 9 law.

10           THE COURT: That's in evidence, isn't it?

11           MR. ADAMS: I'm not sure if it is, or not.
12 Have you taken judicial notice of that?

13           THE COURT: Is the statute a regulation
14 requiring pilotage in evidence? I thought it was? I 15 mean, listen, I don't know if it is, or not. And 16 there's been so much evidence I would expect that in 17 arguing this motion you know the answer to that.

18           MR. ADAMS: That's what I requested the 19 judicial notice for, if it's not. I'm not sure if it 20 is. The purpose of my argument now is to delineate 21 what Mr. Cole can argue tomorrow as far as what are the 22 Prince William Sound pilotage laws, and whether he can 23 get up and say, "The court has taken judicial notice of 24 this law. This is what was required," and use 25 Lieutenant Commander Falkenstein's chart that shows

1 pilotage, non-pilotage, and go right down the line and 2 see that there was a violation.

3 THE COURT: Mr. Adams, did the court take 4 judicial notice? Mr. Purden just shook his head as if 5 to say we had not taken judicial notice.

6 Were we even asked to take judicial notice of 7 the pilotage regulations?

8 MR. ADAMS: By my motion, yes. I mean my 9 motion was...

10 THE COURT: 21st of February.

11 MR. ADAMS: February 21.

12 THE COURT: So, we haven't had a chance to 13 rule on this motion is what you're saying?

14 MR. ADAMS: That's correct. Yes.

15 THE COURT: Let me take a look at it.

16 (Pause)

17 Specifically, which statute or regulation do 18 you wish the court to take judicial notice of?

19 MR. ADAMS: Well, Your Honor, the State would 20 request the court taken judicial notice first of 46 USC 21 8502.

22 THE COURT: What else?

23 MR. ADAMS: In addition to that, the State 24 requests that you take judicial notice of Captain of 25 the Port Order 1-80.

MR. ADAMS: And Commander McCall's September 1986 memorandum.

THE COURT: That's in evidence, isn't it?

MR. ADAMS: I believe so, but what it is -- Prince William Sound pilotage law is an aggregate of those three things. And they all three have to be read together.

THE COURT: My question is, it is in evidence?

MR. ADAMS: Yes, it is in evidence.

THE COURT: Now, how about the Captain of the Port Order 1-80? Is it in evidence?

MR. ADAMS: No, it's not.

THE COURT: Was it offered in evidence at any time? What's the exhibit number if it was?

MS. HENRY: It was marked, but I don't think it was offered.

MR. ADAMS: It wasn't offered, Your Honor.

(Pause)

Your Honor, the State's request...

MR. ADAMS: He is in his office.

THE COURT: Let's get him over here. He's going to be arguing these instructions to the jury, isn't he?

MR. ADAMS: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Pause)

All right. So we have the September 1986 letter in evidence. We don't have the Captain of the Port Order in evidence and we don't have 46 8502 in evidence. Is that correct?

MS. HENRY: That's correct. That's my understanding.

THE COURT: So, your request, as I understand, you want the court to take judicial notice of those three items?

MR. ADAMS: That's correct, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Madson. This is timely
2 made, by the way, Mr. Madson. It has not been ruled on 3 by the court on the February 21st...

4 MR. MADSON: I wasn't going to argue that,
5 Your Honor.

6 Essentially what I'm going to say is let's 7 start back at the beginning and ask the question why 8 this particular instruction, or this Supplemental 4 and 9 2 should be given at all, or 3 for that matter. And, 10 of course, I think that one has pretty well been 11 covered, because the court did not take judicial notice 12 of that .04.

13 But, let's go back to the only authority to 14 date that the State has cited for this proposition, 15 which, again, is a single jurisdiction in South Dakota.
16 And there, at least -- at the very least, the bottom 17 line there was the court said that these instructions 18 that give particular emphasis to certain operating 19 rules of the road...

20 THE COURT: Let's get back on track. The 21 question is shall we take judicial notice under 22 evidence rule 201 and 202 and 203 of 46 8502 and 23 Captain of the Port Order 1-80.

24 MR. MADSON: Well, I don't think the court
25 could stop there, Your Honor. This opens up the door.

1 You know. You can take judicial notice of it.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Let's start over again.

3 Ms. Henry, we do have admitted 46 USC 8502.
4 It's Exhibit 107. Exhibit 108, contrary to your 5 statement, the Captain of the Port Order was not 6 admitted, nor offered. So, we have two out of the 7 three offered, the 1986 letter -- and admitted -- the 8 46 USC 8502. We're now talking about Captain of the 9 Port Order 1-80 only at this time.

10 MR. MADSON: I thought that one was -- that 11 was offered before, or not offered?

12 THE COURT: Not admitted, nor offered.

13 THE CLERK: That I know of.

14 MR. MADSON: Okay.

15 THE COURT: That was according to Mr. Purden, 16 our in-court deputy, here. He says that the USC 17 section exhibit is 107 and it was admitted.

18 MR. ADAMS: The problem with the 1-80, Captain 19 of the Port Order is you can't stop there, Your Honor.

20 You can take judicial notice. I think the 21 court has to take judicial notice of 33 CFR Captain of 22 the Port Orders and waivers. In other words, the 23 secretary of the Department of Transportation did not 24 set up Prince William Sound for special pilot 25 indorsements here, I think. The Coast Guard did that.

1           They also allow the Captain of the Port to do 2 this, and also, issue waivers.

3           That goes to -- that simply at one time -- if 4 I'm thinking correctly the 1-80 is the one for daylight
5 passage. And then, the problem is after that McCall 6 did an internal memo -- that's the one that hasn't been 7 offered into evidence -- in September of 1986. That 8 one broadened the daylight passage to include night.

9           Then we have the ALAMAR letter. See, all 10 these things kind of fit in there. And I think the 11 court...

12           THE COURT: The ALAMAR letter is in evidence.

13           MR. MADSON: Yeah. That's all in evidence.
14 So, the court has taken judicial notice of the statute.
15 I don't have any problem with that. That's in there.
16 And it could be argued. I think everyone can argue.

17           You've heard, you know, a week of testimony, 18 if not more, about what does this mean? You know, what 19 does pilotage mean, and whether or not it was violated 20 or not. But to emphasize this as evidence of 21 recklessness when we have all these contrasting views of 22 pilotage and contrasting letters, memorandums and 23 everything else. It simply plays a much greater role 24 than necessary in this whole case.

25           I don't have any argument with the State being

1 able to use that statute, because the key words there 2 were direction and control, and what does that mean.
3 And we've heard all kinds of varying testimony about 4 when it's necessary and when it isn't.

5 And secondly, the importance of this is just 6 way, way over extended here. It's a $500 civil fine 7 for this statute. That's like the administrative 8 regulations for the Coast Guard. You know, that's all 9 they can do is say, "Well, we might take action on your 10 license," under Supplemental 2, or 3, but to give these 11 things the importance, to say if you violate these you 12 make this quantum leap and say this is recklessness
13 under our State statute is just -- it's beyond me.

14 So, in other words, I don't have any problems.
15 The court has already had that in evidence, 46 8502.
16 And I think we are free to argue the meaning of that in 17 the context of this case.

18 THE COURT: My specific question was do you 19 have any objection to the court taking judicial notice 20 of the Captain of the Port Order 1-80?

21 MR. MADSON: Yes.

22 THE COURT: Okay. That's what we're talking
23 about.

24 MR. MADSON: Yeah. Okay. I do. Because you 25 can't limit it to just that.

1 THE COURT: We have in evidence 46 8502. And 2 we have the September 1986 letter in evidence. And in 3 order to get this in evidence the court's being 4 requested to take judicial notice of it so it can be 5 argued. That's what the purpose of this is.

6 I'm not dealing with the instruction.

7 MR. MADSON: Right. Let me just ask the 8 court, you said the internal mem -- that's September 9 '86, is that in evidence? I don't believe it is.
10 That's why I'm wondering. Not 1-80, but memorandum
11 from McCall dated September '86?

12 THE COURT: What is the ALAMAR letter dated?

13 MR. CHALOS: Your Honor, if I may, the ALAMAR 14 letter is September 19, 1986. The internal memo that 15 we're talking about is September 3rd, 1986.

16 MR. MADSON: They're two separate things.

17 MR. CHALOS: I think that was offered but 18 wasn't admitted.

19 THE COURT: Have a seat, Mr. Cole. You can 20 participate in this.

21 Okay. Mr. Adams, you've asked in your 22 memorandum, the last page, it says, "This court should, 23 therefore, take judicial notice of the Prince William 24 Sound pilotage law applicable to coastwise vessels
25 which was in effect when the Exxon Valdez grounded."

1           That law is represented in 46 USC 8502.
2           That's in evidence.

3           Together with the procedure set forth in 4           Captain of the Port Order 1-80, that's going to be 5           taken judicial notice of in a moment, and Commander 6           McCall's September 1986 memorandum of procedures which 7           were in place with only minor changes for over nine 8           years prior to the grounding.

9           If that's what you want, this court will take 10          judicial notice of that and that will come into 11          evidence as having been taken judicial notice of.

12          MR. ADAMS: Thank you.

13          THE COURT: And that's what you want, isn't 14          it? The 1986 memorandum from Commander McCall?

15          MR. MADSON: Your Honor, that was an internal 16          memo. Nobody ever saw that except the Coast Guard, you 17          know.

18          THE COURT: Okay. It's not one that was 19          disseminated to the...

20          MR. MADSON: No. The ALAMAR letter is a 21          different one. That's already evidence. That's 22          Exhibit B. Defendant's Exhibit B is the ALAMAR letter.

23          THE COURT: Was there an offer of the 1986 24          memorandum in evidence? I thought it was offered and 25          rejected.

1 MR. CHALOS: Right.

2 MR. MADSON: I think that's correct.

3 MR. COLE: It was never offered, Your Honor.

4 It was marked.

5 MR. ADAMS: Again, the letter, itself...

6 THE COURT: What's the number of it, Mr.

7 Adams?

8 MS. HENRY: It should be the one right after 9 1-80.

10 THE COURT: My recollection is that the ALAMAR

11 letter came in -- parts of it came in.

12 The memorandum there was an objection to. The 13 court ruled against admissibility on hearsay grounds.

14 MR. ADAMS: Okay.

15 THE COURT: Now that's my recollection. And I

16 don't remember what Exhibit it was. And maybe, since

17 you're asking for it you can give us some clue to what 18 exhibit you're talking about.

19 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: I don't have a copy of 20 it, Your Honor.

21 (Pause)

22 THE COURT: Did you find an exhibit number for

23 it?

24 MS. HENRY: Your Honor, if I recall when those 25 were marked we thought we were going to mark the third

1 one, too. Apparently we did not. It would have been 2 the next one in order. So, since it apparently was not 3 marked we did not have it marked, nor did we offer it.

4 But, as to the third one, the 1-80 was marked.
5 We did not offer it.

6 THE COURT: I clearly recall talking about 7 this in this case, the 1986 Internal Memorandum. Mr.
8 Cole, don't you remember that?

9 MR. COLE: Yes. I remember.

10 THE COURT: And do you remember the court
11 rejecting its admission?

12 MR. COLE: Yes. I remember that.

13 (1348)

14 THE COURT: Okay. The court will not be 15 taking judicial notice of that internal memorandum.
16 That is not a proclamation of law as the rule 200 17 series refers to. I've already ruled on it's 18 admissibility and there's no reason to take it under 19 advisement any further. So, your request to take 20 judicial notice of that document is denied.

21 I'm going to take judicial notice of Captain 22 of the Port Order 1-80. It will come into evidence.
23 If you will get us an exhibit that's properly marked it 24 will be admitted, if we don't have one already.

25 I'll leave that up to you, Mr. -- before you

1 can argue it it has to come into evidence.
2 MS. HENRY: It's been marked as 118.
3 THE COURT: Pardon?
4 MS. HENRY: It's been marked 118, Plaintiff's 5 118.
6 THE COURT: 118. That doesn't sound right to 7 me.
8 THE CLERK: No. Captain of the Port Order 1-9 80 is Exhibit State's 108.
10 THE COURT: 108.
11 MS. HENRY: 108. I'm sorry.
12 THE COURT: Okay. 108's admitted.
13 EXHIBIT 108 ADMITTED
14 Okay. Now let's talk about the instructions 15 based on these regulations.
16 Do you wish to be heard any further, Mr.
17 Adams, on the instructions? That would be State's 18 Supplemental 2, which I've denied. We won't even 19 discuss it any more.
20 State's 3 and 4.
21 MR. ADAMS: You have denied 2, Your Honor?
22 THE COURT: That's correct. I've already 23 ruled that that was not admissible in evidence. That 24 regulation was not admissible in evidence.
25 MR. ADAMS: Oh. That was 3, the one that was 1 not admissible into evidence.

2 THE COURT: Oh. Let me see. Let me see 2.
3 I'm sorry.

4 That's the one with four hours. Is this the 5 one with four hours?

6 Okay. Number 3 is not going to be given.

7 MR. ADAMS: Number 4, Your Honor, just that 8 instruction, again, summarizes what the law was in 9 effect at the time, coastwise pilotage tankers. And, 10 again, it is law that that was what the pilotage 11 tankers were required to follow. They certainly are 12 going to argue that the ALAMAR letter somehow waived
13 it, even though the first two sentences of ALAMAR
14 clearly discuss non-pilotage tankers, and Captain 15 Martineau specifically admitted that applied only to 16 non-pilotage tankers.

17 They're entitled to argue that, however, this, 18 again, rises to the level of the regulation. It is a 19 law that the Captain of the Port has authority to 20 issue.

21 THE COURT: Is there a regulation in evidence 22 that relates to this four hour limitation?

23 MR. ADAMS: The four hour limitation, yes.
24 You took judicial notice of the four hour limitation.
25 And now, that's number 2. Number 4 goes to the 1 pilotage law.

2 MR. MADSON: Your Honor, I'm not so sure that 3 judicial notice was taken on that four hour. I'd have 4 to look back and think about that, but I don't believe 5 so.

6 THE COURT: Mr. Cole, did the court take 7 judicial notice of it?

8 MR. COLE: Yes. You took judicial notice of 9 it. That's my -- I'm trying to remember who it was 10 through.

11 (Pause)

12 THE COURT: That's one of them. What's the 13 statutory citations to that?

14 MR. ADAMS: It's 33 CFR 95. I can give you an 15 exact cite.

16 33 CFR section 95.045.

17 THE COURT: It seems to me we did take 18 judicial notice of that. Was there an exhibit marked?

19 MR. COLE: Yes. There is an exhibit marked?

20 THE COURT: Why don't you come up here and see 21 if you can help Mr. Purden find it?

22 (Side conversation)

23 THE COURT: Is it 33? Why don't you see if 24 you can find it over there?

25 THE CLERK: (Indiscernible - away from mike)

1 THE COURT: Did the court take judicial notice
2 of it?

3 MR. MADSON: It wasn't admitted. I don't 4 believe the court did.

5 MR. COLE: Well, there's two sections that 6 were in that. One of them dealt with...

7 THE COURT: Let's get the exhibit so we can 8 look at the exhibits.

9 (Pause)

10 Exhibit 33 is the document that the court did 11 not take judicial notice of, Mr. Cole, Mr. Adams.

12 MR. ADAMS: That was...

13 THE COURT: That's the one I did not take 14 judicial notice of. It's the one that talks about an 15 individual is intoxicated when he has a blood alcohol 16 of 10 percent, or .04. This was offered and it was 17 rejected by the court, Exhibit 33.

18 (Pause)

19 MR. COLE: Judge, this also contains the 95.
20 045 four hour. And that's the part that I think that 21 you took judicial notice of. There's a second and 22 third page, 95.045. I know you're right on the first 23 part, well, as for as the .04, because I remember that 24 discussion with Mr. Prouty and Mr. Madson.

25 But my recollection is that when we talked

1 about the four hour limit that that was admitted. It 2 was in one of the witnesses that -- I believe it was 3 one of the crew members' alcohol policies for drinking.

4 THE COURT: So, you're requesting the court to 5 take notice of 33 95.045?

6 MR. COLE: Yes.

7 THE COURT: Mr. Madson? You know the 8 regulation, I take it. You don't need to...

9 MR. MADSON: Yeah. I do, Your Honor. My 10 recollection was while there was testimony the court
11 did not take judicial notice of that. That's how I 12 remember what happened. And, of course, just because 13 there's testimony doesn't mean that the court can take 14 judicial notice of a particular Coast Guard regulation.

15 THE COURT: There's a request now. If there 16 was not a request, then there is a request now and 17 there was testimony. I remember the testimony at 18 least.

19 MR. MADSON: Well, I would object to that, 20 Your Honor. I don't believe the court should take 21 judicial notice of that.

22 You know, one thing is it kind of lulls us
23 into a sense of false security when the court makes a 24 certain ruling, and then we go on, and don't maybe 25 cross examine witnesses and do certain things. And

1 then, after the case is all over they come and say now 2 we want you to take judicial notice.

3 (Pause)

4 THE COURT: All right. The court will take 5 judicial notice of 33 95.045 (A), (B), (C), and (D).
6 And we'll have to have this -- Exhibit 33 consists of 7 three pages. The portion of 33 which the court 8 rejected, which was a standard of intoxication, 33
9 95.020 is on a separate page from the section 33
10 95.045. Would counsel have any objection to separating 11 those two and making a separate exhibit of the latter?

12 MR. MADSON: I would -- I have to look at it, 13 Your Honor, but I would just say that section -- the 14 court has over our objection taken judicial notice of 15 should be the only one that goes in. Nothing else.

16 MR. ADAMS: We have no objection to that, Your 17 Honor.

18 THE COURT: Why don't you go ahead and get a 19 copy made of just that section, pass it by Mr. Madson, 20 just of 95.045? You can blank out the rest of it and 21 that will be exhibit -- what number shall we make that 22 now?

23 (Pause)

24 EXHIBIT 180 ADMITTED

25 It will be Exhibit 180. It's admitted.

1 All right. The court will not be giving 2 State's proposal Supplemental 2, nor State's Supplement 3 4 for reasons similar to the reason not given the 4 package requested by the State, that they're 5 argumentative, that they're unduly commenting on a 6 particular item of the evidence, highlighting it
7 unnecessarily.

8 (Side conversation)

9 THE COURT: Okay. I gave counsel a numbered 10 copy of the court's proposed instructions. They're not 11 in final form yet, but they're getting closer. I 12 numbered them so we'll have a reference point to 13 discuss them. I have an unnumbered copy which we'll be 14 using eventually for a final numbering.

15 Let's start with the defendant. Any 16 objections to the court's proposed instructions?

17 MR. MADSON: Which ones, Your Honor?

18 THE COURT: Any objection to the court's 19 proposed instructions? That's the package of 20 instruction I gave you Friday.

21 MR. MADSON: Oh, yeah. Yeah. I do.

22 THE COURT: You can start out with the number 23 that you're referring to and we'll discuss them.

24 MR. MADSON: Perhaps the court can refer to my 25 written memorandum that was filed today, but it starts

1 with instruction 30. That's the negligent discharge
2 one.

3 THE COURT: So, up to 30 there is no
4 objection?

5 MR. MADSON: I believe the only thing I did 6 was talk about lesser includeds in that.

7 THE COURT: Okay. I'll be pulling out the 8 lesser includeds so we won't need to discuss the lesser 9 includeds. And there'll be no verdict form for the 10 lesser includeds. And there'll be no transition 11 instructions for the lesser included. Any definitial 12 instructions that pertain just to the lesser includeds 13 will be eliminated as well.

14 So, 30.

15 (2130)

16 MR. MADSON: Okay. Number 30, the court can 17 see by my memorandum, what I propose doing is changing 18 that one to insert a third -- you've got first 19 paragraph, second paragraph, and third. And that 20 should read that, "Third, that the negligence of 21 Captain Hazelwood was the legal cause of the discharge 22 of oil."

23 And then I have two proposed instructions 22
24 and 23, and they define legal cause and superseding 25 cause. And the reason I requested those, Your Honor,

1 was after the court indicated last Friday it was going 2 to give the civil standard of negligence it seemed only 3 fair and only proper that if the civil standard is 4 going to be applied to Captain Hazelwood, that he 5 should be entitled to the defenses of a civil standard, 6 and that includes superseding cause and proximate, or 7 legal cause.

8 And, so, those two instructions, I think would 9 be appropriate.

10 THE COURT: Let's start with the proposed 11 instruction 24 by the defendant in lieu of instruction 12 30. And we would add the final two paragraphs to any 13 instruction. The final two paragraphs of instruction 14 30.

15 So, do you object to 24 in lieu of 30?

16 MR. ADAMS: Yes, Your Honor. This is not a 17 civil case. And the standard of negligence that we're 18 using is not a civil standard of negligence. We're 19 using a criminal standard of simple negligence. It's 20 not used often. However, it is used in negligent 21 driving. It's used in fishery cases. And it's going 22 to be used in this case.

23 Therefore, the only causation questions are 24 criminal causation questions. And what Mr. Madson is 25 trying to do here is argue that because we're using a

1 definition of negligence that is used in civil cases, 2 that automatically this is a civil case. Well, that's 3 not the case.

4 And I believe that the Wren case -- Wren vs
5 State establishes the proximate cause. And that is 34, 6 which you're using. And, "That it's not necessary for 7 the defendant's actions or inactions in this case to be 8 the sole proximate cause for the risks that were 9 created in this case," and so on.

10 The other case that talks about intervening
11 causes, Kuzmider (ph) -- you're familiar with that one?
12 That's equally applicable to a case where the State -- 13 where the court's going to be using a negligence 14 standard mental state. And that essentially goes along 15 with that instruction right there. We don't need to 16 get into issues of proximate cause, superseding cause, 17 intervening -- you could have restatement of tort 18 section 4.04 and 4.02(B) in here for the rest of the 19 week. We could be arguing about that.

20 This is not a civil case. It's a criminal 21 case.

22 THE COURT: Do you think that there should be 23 some language regarding substantial factor? Causation 24 is generally defined in terms of being a substantial 25 factor in bringing about the outcome. And that was not

1 proposed by the State. Do you think that that would be 2 appropriate?

3 MR. ADAMS: No, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: You do not think...

5 MR. ADAMS: If the instruction that we use for 6 causation comes from a criminal case and talks about 7 criminal causation, then we're not going to have an 8 objection to it. But we start talking about 9 restatement of torts, and the Alaska Supreme Court 10 definitions of intervening and superseding cause, we're 11 going to be getting into a quagmire.

12 THE COURT: Well, did you track the pattern
13 instruction with this proposed 34?

14 MR. ADAMS: This proposed 34 came out of Wren 15 vs State. And that's how we got that instruction.
16 That's W-r-e-n.

17 (2392)

18 THE COURT: David, would you go get the 19 pattern jury instructions for criminal cases, please?

20 Let's go on to the next objection. We'll come 21 back to this one.

22 MR. MADSON: Yes, Your Honor. Let me look and 23 see here. Where's the next one? Oh, no. I want to go 24 on my instructions.

25 My requested 21, which has to do -- I'm trying

1 to find it in the court's numbered one.

2 THE COURT: We are now going on the court's 3 proposed instructions. So, when you come to one that 4 you object to let me know.

5 MR. MADSON: That's what I'm looking for right 6 now, Your Honor. And for the life of me, I can't seem 7 to find it.

8 THE COURT: You may not have it.

9 MR. MADSON: That very well might not be in 10 there. That's the problem, I think.

11 THE COURT: Okay. 38 may be.

12 MR. MADSON: Yeah. I would either have a 13 separate one, or add my requested 21 right after the 14 first paragraph of the court's 38, for "Operating a 15 watercraft means to navigate, or use..."

16 THE COURT: Where did you get this proposed 17 instruction 21, Mr. Madson?

18 MR. MADSON: This came from actual physical 19 control, the definition, Your Honor, under Department 20 of Public Safety vs Conley, and the cases are Jacobson 21 and...

22 THE COURT: What are the citations for them?

23 MR. MADSON: It's in my memorandum where that 24 came from. It's 754 P.2d 234, Lathan vs State, 707
25 P.2d 941, and Jacobson vs State, 551 P.2d 935.

1 THE COURT: Are these Alaska cases?

2 MR. MADSON: Yeah.

3 And what they did in Conley, and this is 4 exactly where it came from -- in a footnote, I believe, 5 it's -- yeah, footnote 4 on page 235 in Conley, the 6 state supreme court quoted the Montana Supreme Court 7 case the definition of actual physical control. And 8 that's the precise wording that I took from there.
9 They apparently cited with approval. They indicated 10 that that's what Montana meant. And I think it's 11 necessary to put this in the proper focus.

12 (Pause)

13 THE COURT: Mr. Adams, I understand that 14 operate a watercraft is defined by our statute, and the 15 cases that are cited by the State go to driving motor 16 vehicles, cars, and they're not exactly the same.
17 However, I want to find out for sure that if you -- if 18 you really object to that statute being given -- that 19 instruction, "The term operating a watercraft means 20 exercise of actual physical control of watercraft.
21 Actual physical control means existing, or present 22 bodily, restrain, directing influence, domination, or 23 regulation."

24 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, I believe Mr. Cole's 25 here to argue this.

1 MR. COLE: I just think the term actual 2 physical control in the sense of operating a watercraft
3 is misleading. That's not what happens on the bridge
4 of a tanker. The captain doesn't have actual physical 5 control.

6 The other part of the sentences -- if you take 7 away actual physical control I don't have any problem 8 with, you know, present bodily, restrain, directing 9 influence, domination or regulation. But, actual 10 physical control, it doesn't take into consideration 11 the difference between operating a motor vehicle and 12 the operations behind the navigation of a tanker.

13 A captain doesn't go up and take actual 14 physical control of the throttle, except in very rare 15 circumstances. And very rarely does he ever take the 16 helm. And so, if you put the words actual physical 17 control in there the problem that you have there is 18 that you confuse the jury. And it's not in accordance 19 with what they heard six weeks of testimony, that 20 here's the captain, he's responsible, he's the person 21 at the con. They are the one that guide and direct 22 this vessel.

23 Then, it's got to confuse them. And under the 24 term actual physical control, unless we have proved 25 some time in the course of this trial that Captain

1 Hazelwood had actually touched the wheel during the 2 time that we're alleging he was intoxicated, this is 3 directed verdict.

4 THE COURT: No, Mr. Cole. That's why the 5 definition says "actual physical control means...."
6 That's the whole purpose of this instruction, to define 7 what actual physical control means. It means, 8 "...existing, or present bodily restraint, directing 9 influence, domination, or regulation."

10 It would seem to me that would be your theory 11 of the case, that when the captain is below if he is 12 still directing influence, domination or regulating the 13 navigation, or the use of that vessel, he would be in 14 actual physical control.

15 MR. COLE: The only thing that I have a 16 problem with in this instruction is the words "actual 17 physical". If it's changed to "The term water -- 18 'operating a watercraft' means exercise of control over 19 the watercraft. Control means existing, present 20 bodily, retrain, directing influence, domination or 21 regulation."

22 I think that more accurately reflects what 23 goes on on the bridge of a vessel.

24 THE COURT: So we would have to have 25 definitions of operating a watercraft, the statutory

1 definition and this definition. That's going to be 2 difficult, Mr. Madson.

3 I'm going to give the statutory definition.
4 That's a given. So how do we hear both of your 5 problems here.

6 MR. MADSON: Well, Your Honor, you know, I 7 didn't make these statutes. I mean, I can only go by 8 what they say. And they say, "Drive or operate."

9 Drive or operate definition under Title 28
10 says actual physical control of drive.

11 THE COURT: Well, Mr. Madson, operate a 12 watercraft is a statutory definition.

13 MR. MADSON: I agree.

14 THE COURT: And that's defining an operation 15 of watercraft is what we're dealing with here, and not 16 a motor vehicle. So, I'm going to give this statutory 17 definition. And if we can somehow combine both of your 18 areas of concern here into a continuing definition I'll 19 do that. Otherwise it's going to be just like it's 20 given.

21 I think Mr. Cole has a legitimate concern that 22 perhaps the jury is not going to know what operate a 23 watercraft means here. You might be able to argue that 24 he was down below. He wasn't using or navigating the 25 vessel if he was down below.

MR. MADSON: Well, Your Honor...

THE COURT: But, with yours it might give them the way to find that he was.

MR. MADSON: There should be no distinction between a boat, and a car, or a bus as far as the danger to the public is concerned. It is the person that is directing the control, the influence of that vehicle, that is the cause for the legislature to come around and say, "This is a crime."

(2949)

Now, if the court just reads this definition of a watercraft to navigate or use a vessel capable of being used as a means of transportation on water, that covers everybody. I mean, if I want to hire someone to take me from place to place I'm using one. The jury is going to be totally confused about that.

Or navigate? Does that mean the guy that's sitting there in the chart just taking fixes. There has to be something else here to show that the person that has dominating influencing and controlling, and actual physical control is what the state law seems to require. And I don't think they made a distinction between the two.

So, I think it should be given as I proposed and I don't know what more I can say about it.

1 MR. COLE: Judge, I have another solution to 2 help you. What if you use the following? You say, 3 "The term to navigate or use a watercraft means to 4 exercise control over the watercraft. Control means to 5 be present bodily, restrain, directing influence, 6 domination or regulation on the vessel"?

7 THE COURT: Okay. I propose this: a middle 8 paragraph between the two. "The phrase 'navigate or 9 use a vessel' means existing, or present bodily,
10 restrain, directing influence, domination or regulation
11 of the vessel."

12 MR. COLE: We have no objection.

13 MR. MADSON: Would you read that again, Your 14 Honor? I may not have caught it all.

15 THE COURT: It would be a middle paragraph.

16 MR. MADSON: This is instruction 38 now?

17 THE COURT: Yes. It would be in the middle 18 between the two paragraphs on instruction 38. The new 19 paragraph would read as follows, " The phrase 'navigate 20 or use a vessel' means existing or present bodily,
21 restrain, directing influence, domination or regulation
22 of the vessel."

23 MR. MADSON: That sounds pretty much like what 24 I was requesting if I'm hearing you correctly. If I'm 25 correct in my -- the way I perceive it I guess I

1 wouldn't have any objection.

2 THE COURT: Okay. I'll be giving that middle 3 paragraph. That takes care of the definitional problem.

4 Let's go to the next objection that you have 5 to the court's instructions and anything you would like 6 to have in its place.

7 MR. MADSON: I think that might cover it, Your 8 Honor. I believe that's pretty much it.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Let me get into the Alaska
10 pattern jury instructions for causation.

11 MR. MADSON: There's one other one that Mr.
12 Adams gave me and I was going to request it be given 13 too, so there's no problem on it. The court, I think 14 has it up there. That's the one on separate crimes 15 counts.

16 THE COURT: That should be in there already.
17 Isn't it in the proposed jury instructions? It should 18 be right before the indictment instruction. 19.

19 MR. MADSON: Yep. You're right.

20 THE COURT: Let me just see if I can find 21 causation here.

22 (Pause)

23 Well, I can't find the causation instruction 24 right now.

25 MR. COLE: My understanding is that there's 1 not a causation in the thing.

2 I would refer you, maybe there's a couple 3 sources in the last trial that you and I did. We had 4 the David Williams murder trial and we gave an 5 instruction to the jury on this same thing.

6 I would agree that as I remember in criminal 7 law the defendant doesn't have to be the sole proximate 8 cause. He has to be a cause. And I believe you're 9 correct that in some fashion I've seen language that 10 says not only has to be a cause, but he has to be a 11 substantial cause. And I can't remember where I've 12 seen that, but you're right.

13 THE COURT: David, why don't you see if we can 14 scratch that up from the David Williams' instructions.

15 We'll come back to that in a moment.

16 Okay. Now we'll go to the State's objections 17 to the court's proposed instructions.

18 MR. MADSON: Your Honor, just to make sure, I 19 know that this happened the other day, last Friday, but 20 on 35 I just want to make sure that there was an 21 objection to that instruction. I'm quite sure that 22 happened before.

23 THE COURT: You were going to come up with 24 something on that?

25 MR. MADSON: No. Not that one. That one's

1 not the -- there was another one that I found. That 2 was a physical injury one?

3 THE COURT: Okay. No. That's...

4 MR. MADSON: Yeah. And I did not. That's 5 correct. So I have no objection to serious physical 6 injury definition, rather. But, I did last Friday 7 object to this, the last sentence.

8 THE COURT: Frankly, I don't like this 9 instruction, counsel. 35. I told you that I was 10 waiting for Mr. Madson to come with a different 11 approach to it. And I was concerned that he might -- 12 if we didn't include that, he might argue that since 13 oil spill is not included in the definition it is, 14 therefore, not a widely dangerous means. And I'm a 15 little concerned about that. I'd like to find some way 16 that would address that concern. Maybe you can give me 17 a suggestion here.

18 I don't like the statement, "An oil spill may 19 be considered a widely dangerous means." It's 20 certainly permissive, but it would seem to me to be a 21 comment on the evidence.

22 (3456)

23 MR. COLE: Judge, Mr. Madson agreed not to 24 argue this, because it's not in there. It can't be 25 won. I don't have any problem with that.

1           But, if he's going to argue that, I think that 2 under evidence rule 303, and you're not putting in a 3 presumption at all, all that you're indicating is that 4 they can consider that by using the word may. It's not 5 creating an inference. It's not creating a 6 presumption. All it is indicating is that this is not 7 limited by what is actually in the instruction.

8           THE COURT: And that was my conclusion in an 9 earlier pre-trial hearing, that the language did not 10 prohibit the jury from considering an oil spill being a 11 widely dangerous means. I'm wondering if there's some 12 other way we can handle this language, though. It 13 seems to be pretty directive.

14           MR. MADSON: Your Honor...

15           THE COURT: Even though it says "may" it seems 16 to point something out. All we have to do is find an 17 oil spill, and that's not enough.

18           MR. MADSON: Your Honor, I didn't mean to 19 interrupt, but I just want to comment on some of the 20 evidence.

21           Remember, I objected to some of the evidence
22 coming in, especially the Fish and Wildlife officer 23 that testified about dead birds, and things like that.
24 And I said it was totally irrelevant to this. And if I 25 recall, Ms. Henry said the relevance was it goes to 1 show that an oil spill was a poison within this 2 definition.

3 I think it's arguable. And I think that's one 4 of the elements the jury has to find. And I think the 5 State can argue it. And I think I can argue as to 6 whether or not it fits this definition.

7 MR. COLE: The only other suggestion I can 8 have for the court is to put in a last sentence that 9 says, "This is not..." -- words to the effect that this 10 is not an inclusive list.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Madson, I'm going to 12 give it as is on the basis that the "may be" makes it 13 permissive. I think that would be the best way to 14 handle this, given my earlier court ruling.

15 All right. Now we'll go the State's 16 objections.

17 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, before we go through 18 the objections, we need to address the presumption 19 instruction regarding BA levels, blood alcohol levels.

20 And I filed a jury instruction last week. And 21 I've since changed that. I found a memo on this issue 22 today. It's entitled Trial Memorandum Regarding 23 Applicability of AS 2835.033 Presumptions. And 24 attached to that memorandum is a new instruction which 25 tracks for the most part the prior instruction, except

1 for the last paragraph is changed.

2 And the State would request that that 3 instruction be given in lieu of the previous one. And 4 the authority for that can be found in Dresnick vs
5 State 697 P.2d 1059. And the court specifically 6 discussed AS 2835.033 and stated, "We are satisfied 7 that the presumptions established in AS 2835.033(A) 8 reflect a legislative judgment regarding the 9 interrelationship between blood alcohol levels and 10 competence to drive. We believe that a jury 11 considering drunk driving, assault involving motor 12 vehicles, manslaughter and negligent homicide cases 13 should be made aware of this legislative judgment."

14 Now, that is applicable to this case. We have 15 a case where defendant is accused of operating a 16 motorcraft while intoxicated. The jury is entitled to 17 find out what the legislature feels about levels of 18 intoxication and impairment with regard to the blood 19 alcohol level.

20 We have evidence before the jury that 21 defendant had a .061 some 10-1/2 hours after the 22 grounding. There's been evidence regarding retrograde 23 extrapolation. And the jury should be entitled to hear 24 what the legislature thinks about that.

25 There is nothing in that statute, nor is there

1 anything in Dresnick which states that that only 2 applies to blood alcohol tests, or breath tests within 3 four hours of the incident. That requirement is 4 contained in 2835.030(A)(2). And there are cases that 5 -- I believe Mr. Madson has cited the Wilson case, but 6 that doesn't say that it's only applicable to cases 7 that come in with a .04 -- I mean, excuse me, within 8 four hours.

9 I tried to read all the cases that are cited
10 in .033 last night and I couldn't find one that used 11 the words, "These presumptions are only applicable to 12 cases, or tests within four hours." And I have an 13 instruction here, which I did not make a copy of. I 14 apologize. It's a standard DWI instruction, which 15 we're not proposing to give because we feel that this 16 instruction applies only to the test within four hours.
17 And the second paragraph of that instruction says, "If 18 you find that defendant took a breath test within four 19 hours of the offense alleged, and that an accurate 20 result was obtained, you may infer from such result 21 that the defendant's breath alcohol content at the time 22 of the test was equal to, or less than the defendant's 23 breath alcohol content at the time he operated a motor 24 vehicle."

25 Now, that is the instruction that applies to 1 when a test was taken within four hours. And it says

2 the presumption applies. But, there is an inference 3 you can infer. And we don't have that here. We're not 4 asking for this instruction. We're simply asking for 5 the instruction which gives an idea of what the 6 legislature feels about BA levels.

7 THE COURT: Would it make any difference that 8 it was not conducted -- the chemical analysis of the 9 person's breath was not conducted and performed 10 according to methods approved by the Department of 11 Public Safety?

12 MR. ADAMS: In .033, I believe, one of the 13 latter paragraphs, it does state that. I don't have 14 specific recollection if this test was taken, if you 15 followed those directions if that mandates that this 16 presumption would not apply.

17 If I could review the statute.

18 I believe it just requires substantial
19 compliance. For instance, Your Honor, there's a case 20 out there which -- well, I believe that the 21 intoximeters are required to be calibrated every 60 22 days. And there's a case out there where an 23 intoximeter was calibrated on the 61st day. And 24 defendant raised the objection that the intoximeter was 25 not calibrated within the Department of Public Safety

1 regulations, and therefore the test was not taken in 2 compliance with those regulations. The court of 3 appeals said substantial compliance is all that's 4 requited and one day is not going to make a difference.

5 We have substantial compliance in this case.

6 THE COURT: Was full information concerning 7 the test made available to the defendant?

8 MR. ADAMS: Was full information regarding the 9 test...

10 THE COURT: Was full information regarding the 11 test made available to the defendant?

12 MR. ADAMS: What kind of information, if I may 13 -- about how...

14 (4060)

15 THE COURT: About the samples, themselves?
16 All three samples, the results of all three samples 17 made available to the defendant?

18 MR. COLE: The litigation packet was provided.

19 THE COURT: What was provided in the 20 litigation packet?

21 MR. COLE: The litigation packet that Dr. Peat 22 brought to trial, pursuant to his subpoena contained 23 full laboratory analysis, all the steps that were 24 taken, copies of the chemists' notes, protocol of the 25 laboratory. He had it up there in the stand...

1 THE COURT: All three tests?

2 MR. COLE: All three tests, yes. He had the 3 whole entire packet.

4 MR. ADAMS: In addition, Your Honor, Dr. Peat 5 related to me that he was contacted by someone 6 representing the defendant to retest these -- to get 7 the tests, and they could be retested. No one ever 8 followed up on that. So, they had access to all of the 9 tests to retest them if they wanted.

10 THE COURT: Do you know of any DWI case, Mr.
11 Adams, where this type of an instruction was given, 12 where the test was taken more than four hours after the 13 time alleged?

14 MR. ADAMS: No. I do not.

15 (Pause)

16 Your Honor, we're not asking for any kind of 17 a presumption or inference that the jury is allowed to 18 infer that the results taken at 10:30 are what the 19 results were at midnight. That is what -- we're not 20 asking for that presumption, or that inference.

21 (Tape: C-3685)

22 (003)

23 We're asking for an inference that a person -- 24 if the jury finds that Captain Hazelwood had a blood 25 alcohol of over .10 at 12 o'clock, or shortly

1 thereafter, then they can use the legislative judgment
2 about the interrelationship between blood alcohol level 3 and ability to drive.

4 We're not asking for an inference that...

5 Your Honor, in addition, Mr. Madson brought 6 this up in his opening, about the BA levels and that 7 they're not allowed to presume, or that the .06 is not 8 in and of itself evidence establishing negligence. I 9 mean, excuse me, establishing that the defendant was 10 intoxicated.

11 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Madson.

12 MR. MADSON: Well, that part is certainly 13 true, Your Honor. When the State gave their opening 14 and starts talking about a .04 I felt I had to say 15 something on that point. So, that was simply improper 16 rebuttal to the State's opening.

17 But, you know, we're really getting into a 18 situation where the State is asking this court to ask 19 on some extremely thin ice. I think they've totally 20 missed the point. And I would urge the court to read 21 the footnote in Williams, when they really set out what 22 this presumption means, and why the four hour 23 requirement is there.

24 And there's other cases. Let's see. Cole is 25 one, too. I think that's an excellent example. If you

1 look at Cole, remember the evidence of intoxication was 2 his driving, and the fact that an accident happened.
3 There was -- this happened again.

4 The accident occurred sometime prior to -- 5 some hours before the actual taking of the blood test.
6 Now, the State was not allowed to, or did not -- I 7 don't know if they just recognized it, or the judge did 8 it -- the case doesn't set that out, doesn't make it 9 clear. But, it was very clear there was no presumption 10 given to the jury. The only evidence was, like we had 11 in this case, it's identical to this case, where you 12 have a test taken some hours later, well beyond the 13 four hour limitation. And then, the evidence is 14 confined to whether or not he was under the influence 15 at the time, in other words, visibly and noticeably 16 impaired, not the presumption.

17 And in Williams they set out the reason for 18 that. The legislature, as in Dresnick has created this 19 inference, or presumption that if a test is taken 20 within four hours this presumption arises. Now, the 21 fact that you can take the test and extrapolate here 22 does not give rise to the inference. All that does is 23 create a way, or a means, of saying well, this is what 24 the blood alcohol was at that time, but that doesn't 25 give rise to the use of the presumption, or the

1 inference here. And I think Williams really sets that 2 out. If you look at that and Comeau and it makes 3 sense, because there it wasn't done.

4 And I don't know of any case where it's been 5 done, where the test was taken outside the four hours.
6 I've had numerous manslaughter cases where the test is 7 taken, you know, an accident, somebody's brought to the 8 hospital. Blood test. It's within an hour or two, and 9 this is done. But, I've never had one where it's been 10 a situation like this, because this is designed for the 11 .10 theory of intoxication. But, that's why the 12 legislature says it only applies because it only makes 13 sense if this test is done within this period of time.
14 Because beyond that it's anybody's guess.

15 It's not to say, like in Williams the court 16 said, well, it's certainly relevant evidence of what a 17 blood alcohol content could be at an earlier time.
18 But, it does not give rise to the presumption. And 19 that's exactly what they said in there.

20 (180)

21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Adams, I won't be 22 giving that instruction either.

23 I've concluded that the inferences that are 24 permitted under 28 35.033 are inferences on evidence 25 that was gained as a result of tests by the Department

1 of Public Safety, either through the intoximeter, or 2 approved blood tests, that the tests that were 3 administered were not administered in accord with the 4 methods approved by the Department of Public Safety, 5 and that to give that instruction would be error.

6 Your request is, however, noted.

7 Any other suggestions to the court's proposed 8 instructions, Mr. Adams?

9 MR. ADAMS: Well, Your Honor, hearing
10 instruction 37, I believe that we agreed to that 11 instruction on Friday, however it was something that 12 was just put forth to us without a memo outlining that 13 instruction. And upon closer review we believe that it 14 has certain words in it that are not appropriate under 15 the law.

16 In specifics, the words noticeable and 17 noticeably. In the sixth line down it says, "...great 18 or small, that it adversely effected and noticeably 19 impaired his actions, reactions or mental 20 processes...."

21 I don't believe that the law requires that a 22 person be noticeably impaired. And that that's going 23 to give the jury the wrong idea that instead of a 24 driving while intoxicated charge we have a drunk 25 driving charge. And in district court that that's an

1 argument, and something that the district courts always 2 rely on. And it's something -- it's the difference 3 between -- in a driving while impaired case all you 4 have to do is prove the person was impaired. And 5 impaired means not only his physical abilities, but his 6 mental abilities. And when you put something in here 7 it changes it from a driving while impaired to someone 8 who's stumble down drunk. And that puts an unfair 9 burden on the State. All we have to do is prove that 10 he was impaired, not that he was stumble down drunk.

11 THE COURT: So, you would argue that at this 12 time you'd eliminate the word "noticeably" on the sixth 13 line and you'd eliminate the phrase "to a noticeable 14 degree" on the next to last line, is that correct?

15 MR. ADAMS: Yes, Your Honor. I believe that 16 those are the only two incidences where those words are 17 used.

18 THE COURT: This is your last shot at this 19 instruction. Is there anything else you wanted to 20 argue about it?

21 MR. ADAMS: In our office and in the Anchorage 22 District Courts the instruction that we proposed is the 23 one that's used. It's always used.

24 And, if this is the one that's used up in the 25 fourth Judicial District, as Mr. Madson states, then we

1 feel that that's wrong. That puts an improper burden 2 on the state.

3 THE COURT: You have no objection to the 4 instruction, then, 37, if we eliminate the term 5 "noticeably" in the sixth line, and "to a noticeable 6 degree" in the second to last line, is that correct?

7 MR. ADAMS: That's correct, yes.

8 THE COURT: Your Honor, I got this instruction
9 from Judge Zimmerman's chambers. It is consistently 10 and routinely given by all the district court in 11 Fairbanks.

12 Now, maybe there's a distinction between drunk
13 drivers in Fairbanks and Anchorage. Maybe in Fairbanks 14 they have to be noticeable while here they can drive 15 around without being noticed. But, there has to be 16 some way of knowing when a person is impaired.

17 I mean, we just have to look at this in a 18 common sense way. Certainly the test is: was he 19 impaired? I mean, that's what driving while 20 intoxicated is all about. But, how do you translate 21 that to a jury, and what do they look for when they do 22 that?

23 You can either have a blood test, 1, or else 24 there's evidence of impairment.

25 What's the evidence of impairment that his

1 physical or mental abilities that you could notice it?
2 The routine one is the police officer saying yes, I
3 gave him these tests. He couldn't perform the tests
4 right. His mental abilities were a little bit screwed 5 up. He couldn't count. He couldn't do this. He 6 couldn't walk the line. These are noticeable 7 impairments.

8 If you take away that language, or those 9 words, and also, I might add, the State of Alaska was 10 certainly represented and has been represented in 11 prosecuting cases in Fairbanks routinely. And I don't 12 know if they ever objected to this, or if they have, if 13 it ever was taken up on appeal. I'm certainly not 14 aware of a case that construed this. But, my gosh, 15 it's been around for a long time. This is the first 16 time I've heard an objection to it.

17 THE COURT: All right. I'll eliminate the 18 word "noticeably" and "to a noticeable degree". I 19 think that's the way it should be. There's lots of 20 people who can mask their impairment so as not to 21 appear noticeably impaired, but certainly can be 22 considered impaired based on their actions and their 23 judgment calls.

24 Mr. Adams, next?

25 MR. ADAMS: If I could just have one moment,

1 Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Yes, sir.

3 (Pause)

4 MR. ADAMS: That's it, Your Honor.

5 (370)

6 THE COURT: Okay. There is an instruction
7 that I think we need to -- 28, Court's proposed 28.

8 Mr. Madson, the Court's proposed 28.

9 MR. MADSON: Which one?

10 THE COURT: 28.

11 (Pause)

12 MR. MADSON: That's out. Yeah.

13 THE COURT: Pardon?

14 MR. MADSON: What about it, Your Honor? I 15 mean...

16 THE COURT: That's, is that correct?

17 MR. MADSON: Yeah.

18 THE COURT: Okay. I wanted to make sure.
19 Okay. So, we'll take all the lesser includeds out.

20 Now, I'm going to formulate a new causation 21 instruction, Mr. Madson, that will talk in terms of the 22 defendant's conduct must be a cause, a legal cause, 23 which will be defined as a proximate cause of the harm.
24 It need not be the only cause, but it must be a cause.
25 And a cause will be defined as it being a substantial

1 factor in bringing about the outcome of the event.
2 something along those lines. That's what I'll be 3 doing.

4 MR. MADSON: That probably would cover it.
5 That's the concern I had.

6 THE COURT: Something like that okay with you, 7 Mr. Cole?

8 MR. COLE: That's fine, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Okay. David, you can get cracking 10 on that.

11 Mr. Madson, you've requested instruction 24, 12 which has a third element, "That the negligence of 13 Captain Hazelwood, if any, was the legal cause of the 14 discharge of oil."

15 I'm not going to be giving that, Mr. Madson.
16 That's included in the second element. And I'll be 17 giving an instruction on causation, what that means. I 18 will not be giving that as the third element.

19 MR. MADSON: Okay. That's fine. That'll 20 cover it.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Are there any other 22 instructions that we need to discuss at this time from 23 the State's point of view that haven't been covered?
24 Maybe you'll want to talk it over with all three of you 25 there before we...

1 (Pause)

2 MR. ADAMS: Your Honor, is your ruling that 3 you're not going to be giving a lesser included to the 4 criminal mischief?

5 THE COURT: That's correct.

6 (Side conversation)

7 THE COURT: Unless there's something dramatic 8 happens between now and late this afternoon. I can't 9 foresee that, but if there's some case law that says, 10 "yes, that is," and it would be error to refuse to give 11 it, I will not be giving it.

12 MR. ADAMS: Nothing further, then, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Okay. From the defendant point of 14 view?

15 MR. MADSON: No. Nothing.

16 THE COURT: Okay. I think the numbers will 17 have to be changed, since we're withdrawing some of 18 them. We'll withdraw the ones that won't be necessary 19 any more. We'll renumber them. I'll make the changes 20 that we've talked about today. I'll pull out the 21 lesser included verdict forms.

22 Now, counsel, to avoid a problem I'd request 23 that you hang around here and you go through the 24 exhibits so we don't have any problem with exhibits on 25 the morning of argument tomorrow morning. We've got

1 all morning. This is as good a time as any to go 2 through them.

3 There's going to be an exhibit -- you're going 4 to submit 180, I believe. And if there is a problem 5 that develops you can notify me this morning, or this 6 afternoon and we can take that up then.

7 Anything else we can do?

8 How about -- Mr. Madson, I don't know how they 9 do it in Fairbanks, or how they do it in New York, Mr.
10 Chalos, but if both parties agree to waive their 11 presence during playbacks, they may do so.

12 My standard procedure is to call the attorneys 13 for each question that's asked unless it's a question 14 like, "May we have pencils", in which case I'd call you 15 and say is it okay. But, normally I'd call you and 16 say, "Come on down. Let's resolve the question. And 17 if they wanted a playback we'd find out from them what 18 they wanted. And if you didn't want to be present, I 19 would instruct the jury that nobody be present except 20 the in-court deputy, the bailiff and the jury. And 21 that they would be required to listen and not talk in 22 the jury box. If they need to take a restroom break 23 notify Mr. Purden, and then they listen to the 24 completion of it and then they go back to the jury 25 room.

1           If there was any discussion took place Mr.
2 Purden would be instructed to stop the recording,
3 notify me, and I'd notify counsel.

4           Does counsel wish to be present during 5 playbacks?

6           MR. MADSON: No, Your Honor. We would waive 7 presence during any playbacks.

8           THE COURT: On the behalf of the defendant?
9 Does the state wish to be present at any 10 playbacks?

11          MR. COLE: No. We wouldn't.

12          THE COURT: Any objection to them having a 13 sufficient supply of paper pads and pencils in the jury 14 room?

15          MR. MADSON: Certainly not.

16          THE COURT: Okay. Any objection to them 17 having their notes that they've been taking for the 18 last seven weeks in the jury room?

19          MR. MADSON: Oh, I'd request it, Your Honor, 20 otherwise we're going to have playback for the next six 21 months.

22          THE COURT: Any objection?

23          MR. COLE: No.

24          THE COURT: How about a video -- was there a 25 video? There was a video, wasn't there? How about a

1 video machine in the jury room in case they need to use
2 it?

3 MR. MADSON: I would object to that, Your 4 Honor. The tape is in evidence, but to put special 5 emphasis on that video, which is of oiled beaches and 6 stuff like that, to let them play at any time they 7 want. If they request that that video be played, then 8 that's something we can take up. But, to have the 9 actual machine in there, and who knows what else they 10 can get. I mean, it's possible to watch As The World 11 Turns on that thing, I think.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Any objection to if they 13 request it we'll take it up at that time?

14 MR. ADAMS: We can take it up at that time.

15 THE COURT: How about a cassette tape recorder
16 so they can play...

17 MR. MADSON: I have the same objection with 18 that, Your Honor.

19 The tape is evidence, but the recorder never 20 came in. If they want to play it they can request the 21 court, we can be heard on that and they can come in and 22 hear it. But, to have it available and to take that 23 one piece of evidence and play it as many times as they 24 want really gives them a lot of undue emphasis on one 25 item.

1 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Cole.
2 MR. COLE: I think that they should have the 3 tape...
4 THE COURT: Recorder?
5 MR. COLE: The recorder. Yes.
6 There's a number of tapes in evidence.
7 They're entitled to listen to the tapes. They're 8 admitted. They should be entitled to have that back 9 there and listen to those tapes.
10 THE COURT: All right, is that tape player -- 11 can you get us one that doesn't have a radio function 12 on it?
13 MR. COLE: Yes. I can bring one of those 14 over.
15 THE COURT: And have the tapes, themselves, 16 been protected against erasure?
17 MR. COLE: I believe, yes. They have.
18 THE COURT: Okay. Over objection, the jury 19 will be permitted to have a tape player to play the 20 cassettes.
21 Make sure that you get the right cassettes to 22 the jury and that there aren't any that inadvertently 23 get to the jury.
24 MR. COLE: There's one that's not supposed to 25 go in, and we'll make sure that we grab it.

THE COURT: Anything else you can think of before we...

MR. MADSON: No.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll start working on these instructions. And if you have anything you come up with here that's important enough to call me, let me know. And in the meantime I'll get you a copy of the instructions later this morning, or early afternoon.

We'll stand in recess.

THE CLERK: Please rise This court stands in recess subject to call.
